CHANDLER READY TO TESTIFY

Important Witness in Silver Brokers' Trial Is at Atlantic City

Cleveland A. Chandler, the important government witness whose disappearance threatened to prevent the prosecution of State street stock brokers accused of illegal advertising, has been located at Atlantic City, N. J. He is ready to testify.

Chandler voluntarily disclosed his whereabouts according to Attorney-General J. Weston Allen today. He denies any intention of hiding, said he was in Atlantic City by order of his physician, and desired to give his testimony by deposition.

Attorney-General Allen made the announcement when the trial of Daniel E. Samuel and Everett C. Tarr, accused silver brokers, was resumed before Judge Murray in Municipal Court.

Chandler has been constantly referred to by Attorney-General Allen as the "connecting link" necessary to complete the government's case. He is connected with the Amsterdam Advertising Agency, and as such is alleged to have handled the advertisements of silver stocks for Lowe & Co., of which Tarr and Samuel are members.

The Attorney-General informed Judge Murray of Chandler's effect, and intimated he was willing to accept a deposition. Attorney Daniel W. Meiklejohn, for the defence, inquired at length into the testimony expected of the advertising man.

Judge Murray today announced that the trial of John Ford, Edward Wallace and James A. Donellan had been set for April 20. Bail was continued in $2,500 each.

George L. Ware was recalled to the stand in the Samuel case. Mr. Ware is himself defendant in a similar case under the same statute. He told of a silver "ad" in a morning newspaper, against which he protested to Samuel, because it was "silly." It advised the public to walk to avoid the influenza, and that day Boston was snowbound. This line of questioning was to establish that Samuel knew of the advertisements inserted in the name of his concern.

An attempt to show that the advertising of the silver brokers was done through advertising agents was discouraged by Judge Murray. He said it was pretty thoroughly established that advertising agencies were generally used by big concerns and the question was unimportant.

SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHER FREED

Miss Mary Tochterman of Charlestown Denies She Criticized Police

Miss Mary Tochterman, Sunday school teacher in the Green street Congregational Church, Charlestown, of which she is a member, was before Judge Charles S. Sullivan in Charlestown court today charged with disturbing the peace.

The complaint, which was made by two policemen, Chester Shicks and C. W. Peabody of the Charlestown force, was dismissed.

The police alleged that while Miss Tochterman and her sister were walking home from church along Main street Sunday night, Mary Tochterman called the police "dirty old thugs."

According to the testimony, Schicks and Peabody were talking to two girl friends when the sisters passed. Shicks followed the Tochterman girls and asked their names, which they refused to give.

Shicks and Peabody followed the two girls to an ice cream parlor and requested them to give their names. Following their continued refusal, Shicks called up the station house for instructions, and as a result the two girls were taken in.

Shicks testified he gave the girls their choice of walking or riding to the station house. They were allowed to go home after being "booked" and were arraigned today on a summons.

Before Judge Sullivan the Tochterman girls denied they had made the remarks complained of and Rev. Charles Talmadge, D. D., pastor of the Green Street Congregational Church, testified to their excellent character.

"I believe in law and order," said the clergyman, "but I do not see why the police should be over-zealous."

SPORT BILL SIGNED BY MAYOR

Boxing, Auto and Horse Racing and Hunting Only Sports Barred on Sunday

Mayor Peters signed the order putting Boston under the operation of the new Sunday sports bill today.

Under the provisions of the order which was passed unanimously by the City Council, Sunday baseball and other amateur sports will be legal next Sunday and succeeding Sundays, between the hours of 2 and 6.

The quill with which the order was signed was given to Senator Charles A. Winchester of Dorchester, one of the most ardent advocates of the bill in the Legislature.

Mayor Peters affixed his signature only after having given a full hearing to opponents of Sunday sports. These opponents were led by Rev. Marvin D. Kneeland of the Lord's Day League.

Legalization of Sunday sports comes after a campaign which has lasted years. In that campaign Boston and other industrial cities have led, while much opposition as there was existed in smaller rural communities.

Practically the only sports not permitted by the bill are boxing, horse and automobile racing and hunting with firearms.

BIG LINES IN NEW YORK INVOLVED

New Haven and New York Central Lose Men as Walkout Spreads

New York, April 9.—Switchmen in some of the yards of the New York Central and New Haven roads joined the "outlaw" strike among railroad workers today, extending the movement to include New York's principal traffic arteries. The freight yards at Jersey City were closed. Other roads affected were the Erie, Lackawanna, Pennsylvania and West Shore.

Chicago, April 9.—A nation-wide strike developed from a threat into a fact today. Reports poured into Chicago almost hourly of new additions to the strike in other cities, with twenty-six cities already affected.

Realizing that Chicago is the heart of the trouble, the railroad and brotherhood heads are concentrating every effort to break the back of the strike here, feeling that if this can be accomplished the strikes in other cities will rapidly subside.

French, Japanese and Italian Ambassadors Meet Lloyd George in London

Washington, April 8.—The settlement of Lloyd-George that the United States had agreed to oppose the French occupation of German cities in the neutral zone is based upon the stand taken by the United States ten days ago that Germany might send troops into the Ruhr district, it was announced at the State Department today.

London, April 9.—The French, Japanese and Italian ambassadors conferred with Premier Lloyd George today upon the German situation.

Paul Cambon, French Ambassador to England, explained that France had acted with all sincerity in moving her troops forward into Germany from the Rhine, but Premier Lloyd George was understood to have adhered definitely to his original opposition.

The diplomatic situation which was created by Great Britain's opposition to the French advance was described in semi-official circles today as "critical."

New Increase in Coal Price Predicted

A further increase in the retail price of anthracite was predicted by coal men who were called today before the Commission on the Necessaries of Life to explain the present high prices.

The coal men, representatives of the big railroads and the independent owners of mines, testified that, although the cost of coal was not advanced at the mine, the consumer was faced with a dollar increase on the first of April. In former years, the practice has been, they said, to lower the cost.

General John H. Sherburne, chairman of the Commission, endeavored to discover the reason for this increase. Percy Hunt, representing the Percy Heilner Company, the distributors for the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad, said that he was not sure, but thought that a shortage of fuel, and a threatened increase in wages to the miners were responsible.

A peculiar feature brought out at the hearing was that although the cost of a ton of coal to the railroad companies at the mines was more than three dollars a ton less than the cost to the independent companies, the prices to the consumer was exactly the same.

The cost to the railroads at the mine is $6.60 a ton, but to the independent dealer, who must depend on the roads to carry his fuel, the price is between $9.25 and $9.75. William J. Osgood, treasurer of the Edwin M. Alden Company, an independent concern, stated that he had been un-

RAILROAD STRIKE SPREADS; THOUSANDS OF MEN OUT IN BIG CITIES

Meantime railroad service throughout the country has been crippled, with serious effect on industry generally. Thus far the only governmental action has been a proposal by President Wilson to appoint a wage board to settle the walkout—a suggestion sneered at by the strikers—and the sending to Chicago of G. W. W. Hanger of the Board of Mediation and Conciliation.

Mr. Hanger came here to make a survey of the situation and without authorization to offer government mediation.

His lack of mediation powers, it was explained, was due to the fact that the government does not intend to recognize the "outlaw" unions to that extent.

The latest bulletin from the district chairman of the railroad brotherhoods, which are fighting for their very existence in their attempts to smash the strike declares that "there has been a noticeable, though slow, improvement" in the situation here and continues:

"Men drifted back to work in groups Thursday, and conditions in the district appear to be well in hand. On most of the lines more switching crews were working Thursday than at any time since Sunday. In nearly every yard freight is moving apparently at least 50 per cent. The strike is beginning to fade."

STRIKERS IN FIGHTING MOOD.

These claims are met with derision from the strikers. They say that not only have there been no desertions from their ranks, but that their number is being augmented hourly by desertions from the Brotherhoods. They also deny there is any movement of freight in the yards.

Appeals of the old union chiefs to induce the strikers to return to work were futile. A meeting at which Samuel E. Heberling, international president of the Switchmen's Union of North America, made such a plea was typical.

"This strike is illegal," declared Heberling after a prolonged greeting of jeers and hisses. "You can't get away with it. Do you think you are bigger than the United States?"

"Yes," shouted his 500 hearers in chorus.

At several of the meetings men known to be members of the I. W. W. addressed the strikers and were loudly applauded. At one such meeting John Krieta, a switchman, who arose and urged his fellows to return to work, was shot. He was taken away before the police arrived.

Strike in Jersey City Hits New York Food Supply

By International News Service.

New York, April 8.—New York city's food supply, already curtailed by a strike of marine workers in the harbor, was further seriously menaced today when the "outlaw" strike of railroad workers reached here. The strike hit the New Jersey terminals of several large railroads late yesterday afternoon.

Although reports early today indicated that probably not more than one thousand men were out, railroad officials admitted they were alarmed at the prospect of the strike growing to more serious proportions. Extraordinary efforts are being made to keep freight and passenger traffic moving and to keep the main lines open.

The strike thus far has affected the Erie, Lackawanna, Pennsylvania and West Shore Railroads. The strikers, for the most part, are switchmen employed in the New Jersey terminals. The strike came without warning when switchmen in the Jersey City yards quit their posts during the rush hours. It is estimated that 15,000 commuters were delayed in reaching their homes.

Reports early this morning indicated that service was being maintained by most of the railroads, although on a reduced scale.

The railroad workers made no statement of their grievances and the only comment coming from the strikers was the laconic statement, "We are striking on orders."

Railroad officials assert the strike has direct connection with the walkouts at Chicago and elsewhere throughout the country, and declare also that one of the causes is the "missionary work" done by striking marine workers.

Officials of the railway workers' unions are making vigorous efforts to induce the men to remain at work and have called a conference to discuss the situation.

E. M. Bine, general manager of the Lackawanna, said all division points on his road were affected, namely Scranton, Binghamton, Elmira, Buffalo and Syracuse.

P. E. Crowley, operating vice president of the New York Central, reached here today from Buffalo to take personal charge of the situation. His first efforts were directed to bringing road crews, who remained loyal to the Brotherhood, into the New York yards to move perishable freight and live stock.

The strike has not yet affected passenger traffic or mail trains. Rumors of a strike in the Hudson tubes, which would maroon thousands of commuters on Manhattan Island, became current while Brotherhood Trainmen and Tube Workers were holding a meeting in Jersey City this morning. It was said the workers were advising complete tie-up of all railroad lines.

Detroit in Danger of Food and Fuel Shorage

Detroit, Mich, April 8.—With 2,000 switchmen and 2,000 engineers out today, the strike situation here grows more serious hourly. A food and fuel shortage is certain if the strike continues a week. Milk and mail trains are running, but the freight tieup is complete.

The strikers who renounced allegiance to the Switchmen's Union and the Brotherhood have organized a new union with these demands:

Eight-hour basic day; $1 an hour for switchmen conductors; 95 cents an hour for helpers. Time and one-half for overtime; double time for Sunday and holidays. Five dollars a day for switchmen tending three switches or less, and helpers' pay when more than three switches are tended.

Springfield, April 9.—Homebrew artists have a friend in United States Commissioner John L. Rice. He refused to issue a warrant for Philip Hergeron of Holyoke, who Federal agents declared was making "moonshine" whiskey in his home.

Bergeron told the police his still had a capacity of one gallon an hour and it was "real stuff." The still consisted of a metal water pail, a tomato can and an ordinary dishpan.

The mash was potatoes, oats, prunes and yeast. The agents appeared before Commissioner Rice today on a warrant charging that the case was "too trivial and one which a Federal Grand Jury would throw out if presented."

tion of the last features of seven daylight saving bills presented at the beginning of the present session of the Legislature. It was framed from the seven bills by the legislative Committee on Legal Affairs.

BEST FEATURES SAVED.

The bill was reported in the House February 12, ordered to a third reading March 17, and passed to be engrossed on March 22. It was at first proposed to make it effective the last Sunday in March. The bill was amended to read the last Sunday in April in the Senate.

On March 30 the Senate ordered the bill to a third reading. On March 31 it was passed to be engrossed. On April 2 the House agreed to the Senate amendment.

On April 2 and 4, when the emergency preamble of the measure came up, its real strength was shown. The vote was 172 to 29 in its favor in the House and 36 to 1 in the Senate. The House finally passed the bill by 131 to 38.

Senator Wellington Wells of Boston had charge of the bill in the Senate. Representative Wesley D. Monk of Watertown piloted it through the House.

FAVORED BY 750,000

These and other advocates have maintained that 750,000 citizens were on record in favor of the bill. Fourteen cities were on record behind it and many commercial and labor bodies, including the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

In 1917 it was stated that the health of the people of the State would benefit through Daylight Saving. Massachusetts physicians made this statement. It was concurred in by seventy-three hospitals, the Massachusetts Tuberculosis League and the American Medical Association.

The same year 242 industries with 80,000 employees agreed that the measure would aid the health of industrial workers. At the same time it was announced that 237 optometrists and opticians ventured the opinion that the eyes of the workers would benefit through the act.

There were 1,091 physicians, 47 hospitals and 172 industries with 80,000 employes who said the act would result in a material reduction in the number of accidents in industrial plants. The Industrial Accident Board concurred in this.

The efficiency of industry would be materially increased through the act, according to 1216 physicians and 126 industries with 50,000 employes. It was declared that it would result in a 10 per cent. saving in the amount of fuel used for lighting purposes.

A closing argument was offered by 1,521 physicians and 138 industries with 100,000 employes, that it would provide a necessary and healthful recreation for workers.

MILK DEALER FINED FOR TAKING OFF CREAM

Tad Cartoons Set Pace for Sayings of Day

Tad Dorgan, the American cartoonist, may not have been the man who said, "Let me but write the songs of a country and I care not who makes its laws," but the chatter of his "Indoor Sports" cartoons has largely influenced the sayings and language of today.

Tad's "You tell 'em, I stutter," and like expressions, have been adopted generally about Boston with the following various variations:

"You tell 'em, pie face, I haven't the cruel."

"You tell 'em, goldfish, you've been around the globe."

"You tell 'em, brown sugar, I'm too refined."

"You tell 'em, garlic, I'm not strong enough."

"You tell 'em, onion, and make 'em weep."

TRUCK DRIVER FINED $25 FOR VIOLATING RULES

Joseph E. Feeney of Eighth street, South Boston, was today fined $25 on three counts in the South Boston district court. POLICEMAN'S $70 COAT STOLEN FROM TAILOR able to get any coal since the first of the month. A shortage of cars was given as the reason.

The entire South Boston police force is searching for Patrolman William Kinsman's new overcoat, which disappeared two weeks ago. Kinsman, who has been on the force for twenty-five years, recently bought a new overcoat for $70. He took the coat to Peter Valdonis, a tailor at Sixth and E streets, for alteration. Later the shop was broken into and the coat stolen. Peter offered Kinsman $10 for his coat.

Frank H. Heath, vice president of the C. W. Claflin Company, agents for the Delaware & Hudson Railroad, stated that during the past thirty years the premium had been to reduce coal on April 1, and increase it again on September 1. A reduction of the cost of fifty cents a ton at the mine did not go into effect this year.

Mr. Hunt stated that an advance to the consumer was inevitable, due to a proposed raise in wages to the miners of 27 per cent. He also brought out the fact that at the present time New England is facing a serious shortage, due to unstable wage conditions, congestion at the railroad gateways, and the threatened railroad strike.

RUSSIANS LOST 1,900 IN JAP BATTLE IN SIBERIA

Again a Sale of Waists---This Time It Is Over a Thousand Georgette Waists

It was not easy to figure out how to secure a quantity of Georgette Waists to sell at this price, as they are made from fine Georgettes, and these silks are very expensive. Everyone knows what a Waist of this splendid quality is worth, and is aware that it is not possible to get a Georgette Waist made up by a dressmaker unless a pretty good price is paid. Then, in trimming these Waists fine laces are used, many of which are real, such as Irish, Filet and Cluny. These add much to the expense. Of course a lot of such fine waists are of necessity in the newest models—therefore, the greater part of them must have short sleeves. Here, then, was a problem; but there proved to be a way of solving it. A maker had the good judgment, about a year ago, to order ahead a great many yards of Georgette. Furthermore, he had the persistency to make the manufacturer deliver the goods, something it is very difficult to do, especially when the price is low, and this maker got the order through at the original price. The margin between that price and the price that would have to be paid in the market today makes a difference of two or three dollars in the price of a waist. That was our solution of the problem, and that is how we can sell these fine Georgette Waists at 7.95.

Every waist is new, and the entire lot will go on sale today. They represent the very last thing in waists and are particularly elegant in fashioning. The quality of the material is dainty; quality of laces and of embroidery is refined, not overdone. They are just the sort of waists that women would choose even at double the price. No better assortment or very much better material can be found.

This is one of the greatest waist values that we have offered at any time. We believe we can say that last year we had the best waists obtainable for the money. These waists are still better, and one may be assured that there is no advance over last year at this price.

CROKER'S INDIAN WIFE WELCOMES SUIT BY CHIEFTAIN'S CHILDREN

LOOKS FOR JUSTICE AT LAST

Proceedings, She Feels, Will Put a Stop to "This Whispering Propaganda"

Palm Beach, Fla., April 9.—"To me one of the cruelest things in this persecution is the hypocrisy practiced," said Mrs. Richard Croker, whose step-children seek control of the fortune of her aged ex-Tammany leader husband, who they declare is incompetent.

"Until my husband took away his power of attorney from his son, Richard, I thought his children were fond of me. It was 'Dear Bula, how are you getting on,' and 'how we all enjoy your letters.' They were always asking if there was anything they could do for me and wriding up their letters with 'much love.'

"WHISPERING PROPAGANDA."

"Mr. Croker has tried for two years to keep quiet about the quarrels his children were picking on him and I have tried to help him because I appreciated how he felt toward his own children and because I thought I ought to. Now that they have started proceedings it is a blessing to have everything come out. All we have to do is to tell the truth and we certainly cannot be blamed for that when we are forced to defend ourselves.

"At last we may have justice done and put a stop to this whispering propaganda. I know what they are trying to have understood about me, that I have used my husband's money for my family and other things that are not very nice.

IGNORANT OF BROADWAY.

"I can honestly say that there is not a single act in my life that I am not willing to have them ask me about in court. Mr. Croker is to me a remarkable man and I have a great love for him. I have not used his money for my family and he and I have been very happy in each companionship. It has been fascinating, our working things out together and living in perfect accord and perfect understanding.

"I hardly know anything about Broadway. I am not an actress. I have never been on any stage except when I was going to a school of expression. I very frequently appeared as lecturer and at their entertainments, where I told Indian stories.

SAYS HUSBAND IS BOSS.

"I am not educating my two little sisters. I am the baby of the family. My sisters are married and I have never had anything to do with their education. My father and mother live in the same modest little house that has been their home for the last ten years. They have owned the farm for forty years.

"Another thing that has been said, that I am the boss in our home. That is funny. Nobody who knows him could imagine him not being the boss. I have tried to be a good wife to him, and I know that I have taken good care of him because his health proves it. I have not spent much of his money. Neither of us care for society. I have studied and worked, and found my happiness in that way."

S. B. Garrett, Mrs. Croker's brother-in-law arrived from his home in Pryor, Okla., with affidavits that will be used at the trial of the suits brought here by children of Mr. Croker, in an effort to question the appointment of a committee to conserve his property. The affidavits are from people who knew Mrs. Croker for years, and include photographs of official records.

Sues Havemeyer for $100,000 Heart Balm

Miss Harriet Hearn, who is suing Hector H. Havemeyer for alleged breach of promise. Photo by International

New York, April 9.—Hector H. Havemeyer, sportsman, athlete, man-about-town and member of the family that has made its name synonymous with profitable sugar refining, has been made a defendant in a breach of promise suit brought by Harriet Hearn, a manicure formerly in the barber shop at the Grand Central Terminal, it was learned today. Miss Hearn asks $100,000 damages.

The plaintiff alleges that she met Havemeyer in November and that he was introduced to her by a railroad detective as Mr. Palmer. She alleges that they became very fond of one another and that he engaged a suite of rooms for her at the Hotel Richmond. She further alleges that frequently spent mornings with her, stopping at the hotel on his way from his home to his office.

Miss Hearn alleged that Havemeyer gave her assurances at the hotel until recently, and that he asked her to marry him in December last.

Counsel for Havemeyer has drawn a general denial. It is alleged the plaintiff is the wife of Gerry Hearn and has not been in a position to accept an offer of marriage.

Mr. Havemeyer is forty-two years old. He was married in 1902 to May M. Russell. They have a daughter who is eleven years old.

Declares Women Are Best Accountants

Husbands who rave over their wives' inability to keep accounts, and business men who tear their hair over the feminine inaccuracies of their clerks and bookkeepers, should hear the surprising discoveries of Rev. Dr. C. E. Spaulding of Worcester, who lectured at the New England Methodist Conference.

"Women can keep accounts far better than men," Dr. Spaulding asserted. "Contrary to the general opinion, women are as a rule far more accurate and careful than men in matters of detail. I would much prefer to examine church ledgers and books made out by the women of the parish.

"Men disregard many of the little things that absorb women. If you hand a man a blank statement to fill out, nine times out of ten he will never stop for the individual items. A woman, on the other hand, is more careful, more thoughtful.

"The larger problems of business and industry may be beyond her scope, but in the smaller details she has the advantage.

"Men should go to school to women and learn bookkeeping and accounting. In matters of accuracy and care they are more effective."

And, furthermore, Dr. Spaulding grants to the weaker sex an average of moral and intellectual superiority, particularly in rural communities.

"In country districts where men and women are on an equal plane intellectually," said Dr. Spaulding, "I have noticed a higher level of intelligence and morality on the part of the women. I believe that the average woman is, under these conditions, superior to the average man."

SEEKS MEANING OF 'ANARCHY'

Judge Anderson Likens the Force of Communism to That in League of Nations

Judge George W. Anderson and Immigration Inspector John A. Ryder indulged in a discussion of anarchism and communism in the United States District Court today at the hearing on the petition seeking a writ of habeas corpus for alleged "Reds."

Judge Anderson expressed the belief that to a certain extent communism was like the League of Nations or the religious persecution of heretics during the early days of this country.

The discussion resulted when the court asked Ryder his interpretation of anarchy. Ryder said that in his belief it was anything which tended to opposition to law or overthrow of the government.

"How is the overthrow of the government to be brought about?" asked Judge Anderson.

"By the use of violence and force," responded Ryder.

MUST BE BY FORCE.

In response to questions as to what he meant by violence and force, Ryder replied that he couldn't see how the workers could take over the government except by violence and force.

"Do you mean that they would use guns and weapons?" asked Judge Anderson.

"Yes, their leaders teach it," replied Ryder.

"I am interested in what force means. I have read it somewhere, but find no reference to force," said the court.

"It means by the masses," replied Ryder.

"The League of Nations," countered Judge Anderson, "is an organization to exercise economic force. The persecutions of heretics in the early days of our country was the exercising of religious force."

"In all this literature that I have read I can't find any mention of raising an army or the use of guns or bombs. All that I find is talk of mass action. What I want to know is how this is to be brought about."

"By the dictatorship of the proletariat," replied Ryder, "when the country ceases as the result of the general strike. They would then take over all industries and appoint a dictator for their control."

"Is there any evidence in their literature of weapons or military drill to be used?" asked Judge Anderson.

"No, this move has been nipped in a very small bud," replied Ryder.

"They were not planning to explode anything, then, about a mine, are they?" joined the court, to which Ryder agreed.

ADVOCATE GENERAL STRIKE.

"Was there anything to it except the advocacy of the general strike?" queried the court.

"That was to be the means," replied Ryder.

Ryder was quizzed concerning Attorney Gaylord Bird in Judge Anderson's court, who seeks a reduction in his bail. The inspector stated that there were several pieces of literature and circulars found in his possession. On them in large type were words advocating and advocating the overthrow of "capitalism and the dictatorship of the proletariat."

Ryder was stationed at Brockton on the night of the raids. He denied that the arrest of about 100 alleged Communists there, and stated that where literature was seized there had been no search warrant.

The inspector testified that while quizzing suspects at Deer Island, Seaman Serchuk had told him that while he was a Communist he did not know what its teachings were. The suspect had been ordered deported.

Judge Anderson inquired particularly as to whether or not there was any evidence that Serachuk was given to violence or force except as it was Communist literature found on his person.

Ryder said there was not.

EX-ATTORNEY-GENERAL SNYDER JUDGED INSANE

New York, April 9.—General William F. Snyder, aged seventy-four, former United States attorney-general, was adjudged insane by a commission and committed to Matteawan Asylum by Judge Malone in General Sessions.

R. I. SENATE MAY BURY SUNDAY MOVIE BILL

Providence, April 9.—Sunday movie bill, which passed the House 52 to 39, is said to be shrouded for the committee graveyard when it reaches the Senate. Despite the fact that an accredited majority may be behind the bill, the present chaos in the General Assembly caused by insurgents is attributed to the lack of guidance of leaders who were followed blindly in all legislative matters.

Canterbury, Ct., April 9.—On the farm of John Sisson, a tree was cut in which was found 390 pounds of honey. The bees were lively in spite of the chilly weather. There are many single trees in the vicinity and the average yield is considerable. Honey bee hunting suddenly became a profitable sport. Sixteen "honey trees" were located in a radius of three miles from Plainfield depot. Joe Walsh of Packer, Fred Hanlon of New York City and several other expert bee hunters are scouring the woods.

ASKS M.E. DANCE BAN BE LIFTED

'Slogan' Smythe, Son of Minister, Launches Campaign Against Restriction

Dancing and card playing, for many years under ban by the Methodist Church, will be permitted to members if a campaign launched by former Lieutenant J. Henry Smythe, Jr., known as "Slogan" Smith," comes to fruition. Mr. Smythe, who is the son of an eighty-one-year-old Methodist clergyman, and served prominently in Red Cross work overseas, is the prime mover in an effort to induce the change.

The present conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, at its meeting in Des Moines next month, to lift the ban on these amusements as well as on the theatre-going and other diversions generally regarded by progressive people of today as innocuous.

According to report, a romance in the life of "Slogan" Smith, now thirty-six years old, is responsible for his radical departure from the tenets of his church in this regard. A young woman whom he met at a dance at Delmonico's is said to have refused to join his church because of its attitude toward dancing. The two became engaged, but the engagement was broken. According to friends the romance still exists.

Convinced by personal experience that the church's rigidity on these points was keeping away members, Mr. Smythe makes the following appeal to church members:

"To fellow-Methodists, and other church folks, realize how much harm the Methodist prohibition of amusements has done in about half a century. Why keep people out of religious work, or away from membership entirely, just because of the mistaken idea that it is the Church's duty to regulate practically all of a person's actions? World freedom for these questions of detail is urgently needed also mean more religious interest. I trust that the General Conference this May in Des Moines will clear the plea of the younger, progressive Methodists and lift the ban."

The paragraph in the Church's Book of Discipline which specifies offences for which church members may be expelled, prohibits attendance at theatres, horse races and dancing schools. It is proposed that instead of specific restrictions, the church shall say, as does John Wesley be substituted, which provides "against taking such diversions as cannot be used in the name of the Lord Jesus."

"Slogan" Smith, known also as "The Megaphone Man," was the author of many popular phrases used during Liberty Loan and conservation campaigns.

Need N. E. Youth for Pulpits

Not one young man born in New England offered himself as a minister last year, the New England Conference of Methodist Churches, it was announced today at the conference in Lynn. Bishop Ralph Spaulding urged men from different parts of the country were admitted to be ministers by the New England Methodist bishop.

"I am hungering for the day when New England shall make her contribution to the ministerial rank of the Methodist church," said the bishop. "Her pulpits are a fine field for regenerated manhood, but they are all from different parts of the country."

Bishop Spaulding in his ministerial members of the conference the bishop gave some wholesome advice to the young preachers. "Don't belong to that type of ministers who claims to be 'called' to preach to the hills first, but says he works with his mind. Many a sermon is spoiled by the preacher's eating too much before he preaches. Remember the old saying, 'a loaded stomach makes a leaden head,' and when you are young, practice abstinence and fasting it means both, that!"

The attempt to have the four districts reduced to three districts was opposed by Dr. Rev. A. Wingard of Newton Centre, upon the ground that it would give the district superintendent a larger grasp of his pastoral work and afford him more salary. The whole matter was finally referred to a committee to report at the next conference.

The Rev. E. S. Smiley withdrew from the conference and has taken charge of the Congregational Church at Baldwinville.

The author of the bill is Representative Jour A. White of North Brookfield. It is modelled upon similar laws in Connecticut and New Jersey.

All Ready to Receive a Message From Mars

By International News Service.

London, April 9.—Announcement was made today that Marconi wireless officials have completed their plans for receiving "a message from Mars" if any comes on April 21 when the two planets will be in closest proximity.

Marconi stations on three continents will be "listening in," not only on the 21st, but during the balance of the month, hoping to pick up wireless waves from the Martians. Stations in the United States, Great Britain and Australia will be on the alert.

William Marconi, inventor of the wireless telegraph, was quoted today as expressing the opinion that the mysterious signals which have been picked up from time to time probably were due to electrical disturbances on the sun or some other remote place in the outer skies.

However, he would not deny positively that they may have been sent deliberately by living persons on Mars or Venus.

PROBE DEATHS OF 4 BY GAS

Police Inspector Investigates Massachusetts Avenue Tragedy, Pending Inquest

An investigation of conditions which caused the deaths of four workmen by illuminating gas from a leaking main was made today by Police Inspector James Dennessy. His report will be made to Chief Justice Bolster of the municipal court who will conduct an inquest.

Accompanied by experts on gas poisoning, the inspector interviewed other laborers who were employed in making the repairs on Massachusetts avenue, Roxbury, when the 7 four were overcome yesterday. A photographer took several views of the excavation, which will be presented to the chief magistrate with the other evidence.

The leak had been detected two weeks ago and the work of locating it had been in progress a week. Three workmen who descended the excavation were overcome by coming upon the leak unexpectedly. They were: Thomas J. Donlan, fifty-three; Patrick Glynn, thirty-seven, and John P. Feeley, forty-nine.

An emergency crew from the nearest station of the Boston Consolidated Gas Company was summoned and Dennis Duggan, forty-seven, foreman of the crew, was killed when he descended to rescue the workmen. Duggan's assistant, Michael Maloney, was overcome by the fumes, but restored to consciousness by physicians.

Dancing Lessons for Football Practice

By CHARLES E. PARKER.

Sweet zephyrs!

Scarcely has it been learned that full length mirrors have become part and parcel of the paraphernalia of Harvard track athletes, when, from Amherst, comes the information that Mrs. Curry S. Hicks has been engaged as instructor of folk dancing for the football candidates at Massachusetts Agricultural College.

Yea, sir. "All Around the Mulberry Bush," "Drop the Handkerchief," "Sir Roger de la Paliffon Sprout," "Laudanum Bunches," and "The Morris Dance" have supplanted the customary football calisthenium in which, "Smash, crash and maul him up" was the battle cry of yesteryear, and for two hours each day some thirty or more gridiron giants—candidates for the 1920 Amherst Aggie football eleven—sway and swing and bow and gesticulate their way through a May Day program of folk steps.

And as a reward—providing their efforts merit it—they are to be allowed to participate in a folk dance exhibition on commencement week.

Won't that be just too dear!

Mrs. Hicks, the instructress, a pupil of Cecil Sharpe, has been in charge of the women's gymnasium work at the college, and she states that the object of the dance instruction is to improve the co-ordination of the football line candidates as well as to make more supple and active the stayers while among their number.

For some strange reason opposition arose when the handkerchief number was called for, but this was quickly overcome and the men entered upon the work with praiseworthy earnestness. It is planned to make the dancing a feature of the Aggies' Spring practice several afternoons during each week.

PROSECUTION OF BIROS RESTS

Patrolmen and Salem Chief of Police Testify at Murder Trial

The prosecution rested its case today at the trial of William Biros, charged before Judge Callahan and a jury in Salem with murder in the first degree in connection with the shooting of Miss Blanche Dewole.

Patrolman John C. Murphy, who was on duty in the dance hall at Hawthorne place, Salem, on December 13, 1918, when the shooting occurred, was the first witness. He said when he first saw Biros after the shooting he was on the ground and in the grasp of Robert Clark and others.

In reply to questions by District Attorney S. H. Donnell, Murphy said he did not see blood on Biros' face or hands and did not notice that his clothes were cut. Captain John J. Carr of the Salem police testified that Detective Sergt. Murphy handed a gun to him after the shooting. The gun contained three empty and two loaded shells. He testified Biros' clothes were "mussed up pretty well and his left eye discolored."

Former City Marshal James Dooley and City Marshal Edward J. O'Leary were called as witnesses for the prosecution.

Bricklayers Ride to Work in Taxis

Chicago, April 9.—Just before 7 o'clock whistles tooted today a taxicab rolled to the curb before the new Drake Hotel, now in process of construction on Lake Shore drive. A man in overalls—a bricklayer—stepped out, yawned and glanced at his wrist watch.

"I say, Joe," he called to another overall-clad occupant of the cab, "you'd better come out of it, old chap. The whistle will blow any moment now."

Out came Joe, carrying a drowsy head, and the two entered the hotel structure.

During the next few minutes more than a dozen taxicabs arrived and deposited their fares—all duly garbed in working togs—at the doors of the hotel's levels and other implements of the building trades.

"Yes, it is true we come to work in taxicabs now," admitted one of the de luxe bricklayers. "It gives us more time at home, and really it's quite economical in the long run—it saves us from scattering our energies."

None of the workmen carried dinner pails. It was explained that they all "dine" at a nearby restaurant.

ADMITS 'POISON PEN' ATTACKS

Oil Promoter Arrested for Alleged Threats to Daughter of Rich Banker

New York, April 9.—John N. Redmond, an oil promoter, was arrested in Newark charged with sending a number of "poison pen" letters to a New York woman of high social prominence. He gave his address as No. 592 Riverside Drive, and said he was thirty-eight.

The police refused to give out the name of the wealthy woman. William A. Cusman, a postal inspector at the Newark postoffice, who made the arrest, said that the recipient of the letters was the daughter of Edward N. Breitung, wealthy banker and shipowner, living at No. 16 East Seventy-sixth street.

The only daughter of Mr. Breitung is Mrs. Herbert Richter, formerly married to Max Frederick Kleist, at one time a gardener on the estate adjoining the Breitung's in Marquette, Mich.

Inside the office of the Chief Postal Inspector, in the Pennsylvania postoffice, it was stated that Redmond had been arrested last September on a similar charge, but in order to spare the woman publicity he was arraigned for carrying a dangerous weapon.

LETTERS TO BANKER.

Mr. Redmond is alleged to have written threatening letters to Mr. Breitung and to have been connected with the Boston Children's Aid Society, Boston Tuberculosis Association, and was supervisor for New England in the War Camp Community Service during the late war.

ADMITS THE CHARGE.

Inspector Cusmann said that Redmond's case was one of the strangest he had ever seen. He added:

The man is undoubtedly unbalanced. Despite the fact that he talks rationally enough he has a peculiar expression about the eyes that shows his mind is not just right. He made no attempt to resist arrest and freely admitted his peculiar acts.

The bail was fixed at $2,500 at first, but on the request of the woman's attorney, Commissioner Mathews raised it to $10,000. He was held for the Federal Grand Jury.

By Special Correspondent of Universal Service and the London Daily Express.

Special Radio Dispatch.

Moscow, April 9 (via London).—When M. Litvinoff, at Copenhagen, permitted me to visit Russia, he said: "I don't care what you write, so long as it is the truth."

With my mind filled with the uniform description of horrible conditions obtaining in Russia, I felt his statement to be rash, to say the least. But after several days of wandering in the streets of Petrograd and Moscow at all hours of the day and night, I frankly confess I have searched in vain for any sign of the slightest evidence of terrorism.

On the contrary, instead of organized or disorganized lawlessness, I found the most peaceful, crimeless and soberest of communities.

Even Moscow and Petrograd are the safest cities to traverse at late night hours I ever encountered, and so far as the supposedly omnipresent "Red army" wielding terror over all, there are more soldiers to be seen any day in London than I have seen from the time I left the Esthonian frontier.

At the frontier beyond the Narva a military soldier represented Russia as a wire gate across the boundary road.

At Tamberg there was a large detachment, but instead of rifles they were equipped with axes, having been transformed into labor battalions.

Does Your Blood Need Iron?

How to Make the Test That Tells

A pale face, a nervous, irritable disposition, a lack of strength and endurance—these are the warning signals that Nature gives when your blood is getting thin, pale, watery and starving for iron. If you are not sure of your condition, go to your doctor and have him take your blood count, or else make the following test yourself: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired; next take two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. All good druggists sell Nuxated Iron, on the distinct understanding that if you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.

Actress Is Proud of Pilgrim Ancestors

MARJORIE McCLINTOCK.

Marjorie McClintock, who plays the role of Maud Blobbs, sister of Tillie, with Marie Dressler in "Tillie's Nightmare" at the Boston Opera House, traces her ancestry back to 1635. In fact she makes the statement that on her mother's side of the family there has been no one born outside of New England since the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth Rock.

Both her father and mother were born in Massachusetts, her mother in Springfield and her father in Natick. Her father, who is now a doctor with the rank of major in the United States Army in France, attended Boston University. Her mother went to Emerson College. They met and married in Boston.

William Bradford, the first Governor of Massachusetts, was one of her ancestors, also were Myles Standish and Richard Warren. In all she traces thirteen lines back to the Mayflower.

Miss McClintock is an active member of the Daughters of the Revolution. There is a story that one of her ancestors, Deborah Sampson, donned male attire and fought on the American side in the Revolutionary War.

She first studied the harp for the concert stage and then switched to dramatic work, with the Washington Square Players. From that she went into vaudeville as a harpist, and stepped from that work into musical comedy. She was last seen in Boston as the Spanish girl in "Pin Pin."

PAISH SCHEME IS DOOMED

Financing of Europe by U. S. Out of Question, Says Houston

By International News Service.

Washington, April 8.—The American government holds out no hope to Sir George Paish and his scheme for financing Europe for the next five years, as outlined by him in a secret report to the British government, according to officials of the Treasury Department and of the War Finance Corporation.

Secretary of the Treasury Houston, who said such a plan had been submitted to him in an unofficial capacity, characterized the whole thing as without a chance so far as this government is concerned. He further prophesied that it would never be brought to the official attention of this government by the government of Great Britain.

The plan, which was for a billion-dollar "revolving fund," to continue in operation through the War Finance Corporation and the League of Nations for a period of five years, Europe receiving during that time about a billion dollars in credits every three months, provoked a degree of astonishment among many high officials here.

"Too ridiculous even to be considered by the American government," one member of the War Finance Corporation said.

It became known here today that the Paish scheme is not the only one of the same general character to be laid, officially or unofficially, before the War Finance Corporation. All sorts of plans have been submitted to officials, it was said, mainly designed to shift responsibility from the exporter and banker to the government.

Goodrums, Opposed to Rum, Change Name

Judge James H. Flint has granted permission to Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Goodrum of Quincy and their two children, Harold L. and Margery L., to change their names to Goodwin.

According to the petitioners of the Goodrum family, their name was very distasteful and humiliating to them; that the name of Goodrum was suggestive of intoxicating liquors which the family has absolutely no use for, and the name is very troublesome in the business and social matters of the petitioners.

SHIPS GO UNDER U. S. FLAG

Hearst Injunction Forces Board to Allocate Ex-German Fleet to American Firms

Washington, April 8.—Because of the injunction granted upon the petition of William Randolph Hearst preventing the sale of the thirty former German merchant vessels, the shipping board, it was learned, has decided that after the ships are reconditioned they will be placed with American companies for operation under the American flag.

Admiral William S. Benson, chairman of the shipping board, said that at a conference of the board shortly to be held it would be determined what companies should operate the ships for the board.

Admiral Benson stated that offers are under consideration and that the board decided to allocate the ships to as many American companies as possible.

Because of the determination of Admiral Benson that the ex-German vessels should be fairly distributed, it is probable that the agreement between Barton Payne and the International Mercantile Marine, whereby the latter was to receive the Leviathan and other important units of the fleet, may be rescinded.

15 FLEE FIRE IN BACK BAY

Early Morning Blaze on Huntington Avenue Causes $1,000 Damage

Fifteen persons were forced into the streets when fire was discovered early today in the basement of a four-story brick dwelling house at No. 132 Huntington avenue.

The blaze was discovered by Mrs. George F. Miller, wife of Dr. Miller, who occupies the apartment on the first floor. The crackling of the flames awakened Mrs. Miller and when she looked out of a window in the rear areaway flames were bursting from the basement windows.

After calling her husband, Mrs. Miller notified the fire department over the telephone and her husband awakened the other occupants.

The four apartments were vacated hastily and people in the nearby apartments made ready to get out. The fire department kept the blaze confined to the basement, but the building was filled with smoke. The damage is estimated at $1,800.

Mrs. Harriet Hastings occupies the second floor; Mrs. Charles S. Staples the third floor, and John A. W. Crapo the fourth floor. A number of persons are lodgers in some of the apartments.

MAY EXTRADITE MARY PICKFORD

Faces Sentence of Fourteen Years for Perjury if Divorce Is Annulled

Sacramento, Cal., April 9.—Extradition proceedings to transfer Mary Pickford to Nevada to face charges of perjury, will in all probability be the next move in the investigation of the celebrated movie star's divorce from Owen Moore, in the event the decree is set aside by the Nevada judiciary.

Such was the consensus of opinion of high California officials who were in conference with Governor Boyle of Nevada here Tuesday.

Charges of perjury will be preferred against Mary immediately upon its annulment of the Pickford-Moore divorce, according to those who conferred with Governor Boyle. The penalty for perjury under the Nevada statutes is sentence of from one to fourteen years' imprisonment with no alternative of a fine.

The Nevada executive while here stating Governor Stephens expressed resentment of the movie star's "fraud which made a joke of Nevada's judiciary," and promised that the Nevada authorities will "go to the limit" in an attempt to bring Miss Pickford to justice.

While in Sacramento it is learned from an authoritative source Governor Boyle stated that it is practically certain the Pickford-Moore divorce will be annulled.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Two sizes, 15c and 30c.

ROCKEFELLER TO SPEAK TWICE

Will Discuss Interchurch Movement at Symphony Hall Meeting and at Luncheon

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., will be the speaker at a mass meeting in Symphony Hall, Friday evening, April 16, in the interests of the Interchurch World Movement. Colonel Edward H. Haskell is chairman of the reception committee, and associated with him is a group of prominent Massachusetts men, who will be on the platform. The entire Rockefeller party, numbering twenty-five persons, will be present.

James D. Henderson of Henderson & Ross is chairman of arrangements, and Chester I. Campbell will have charge of the transportation schedule for the party. N. H. Macurda of Bedford, state campaign director for the New World Movement of the Northern Baptist Convention, will be associated with the committee of arrangements.

Two luncheons will be given on the day of Mr. Rockefeller's visit to Boston. One will be for men and the other for women. Both will take place at the Hotel Somerset, and Mr. Rockefeller will be the guest of honor at the men's luncheon.

In addition to Mr. Rockefeller's address at the mass meeting, Dr. Earl Taylor, general executive secretary of the Interchurch World Movement; Governor Carl E. Milliken of Maine, Dr. W. H. Foulke, Mrs. Henry W. Peabody of Beverly, Mrs. R. S. Emrich of Boston and others will speak.

Mr. Rockefeller comes in the course of a speaking tour in behalf of the united simultaneous financial campaign, April 25 to May 2, when thirty denominations will go out after a total of $336,777,373 in the country at large. During his stay in this city Mr. Rockefeller and his party will make their headquarters at the Copley-Plaza.

Judge Regrets Severity of Auto Theft Law

Leo M. Meiden, aged eighteen, of Roxbury, was sentenced to not more than ten or less than five years in the State prison for larceny of an automobile by Judge F. G. Fessenden in the Suffolk County Superior Court.

Judge Fessenden expressed his regret at having to pass so severe a sentence on the youth, but said that the statute left him no alternative.

Attorney Branden appealed to the court to defer the sentence for two weeks so that the Legislature would have time to pass a new law doing away with last year's statute regarding the stealing of automobiles.

Judge Fessenden refused to continue the case, as he said that he could not see how the law could affect this case as it will not be retroactive.

an ally at this critical moment? We have the right to ask the government why it proclaimed a rift in the entente cordiale."

The Daily News declares that it is necessary to heal the breach as quickly as possible, but that "it cannot be done by yielding to a minority of one."

"Has the League of Nations any power to function or does it exist merely for the allies to make a mockery of?" demanded the Daily Herald, organ of the Labor party.

The Daily Express said: "We are bound to regret profoundly action which lacked justification of facts."

The Daily Mail attacked Premier Lloyd George, saying:

"It is necessary to say plainly and emphatically one thing: The British will never permit nor pardon the sacrifice of the friendship and alliance of France for the purpose of aiding Premier Lloyd George in his vote snatching campaign to capture the mugwump National Liberal Club. He has completed the ruin of Russia after alienating the public opinion of the United States."

The Times made the following comment: "Seldom have we seen a more lamentable or shameful exposition of British policy than the statement issued yesterday. We pledge ourselves to resist political apostacy which is equally fatal to our interests and our good name."

"It is unfortunate that an agreement was not attained," said the Daily Telegraph. "The position was left open for misunderstanding after the impression had been allowed to gain ground that an agreement at least to some extent was to be expected."

France Dispatches More Troops to Ruhr District

London, April 9.—Fresh French reinforcements are arriving in the German neutral zone, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Berlin today.

The Berliner Tageblatt is authority for the statement that three French regiments, supported by tanks, have left Strasbourg for Frankfort.

The German National Assembly has been called to meet Monday to discuss the situation.

The French commander has ordered uniformed Germans to salute French officers and French flags.

Reprisals are threatened in the event of further encounters such as occurred at Frankfort Wednesday, when a number of Germans were killed.

Paris Papers Say Britain Played Double Game

Paris, April 9.—The decision of the British Cabinet, opposing the advance of French troops into the German neutral zone from the Rhine, was laid before the French ministry today by Premier Millerand.

A note had been received from London earlier in the day defining exactly the attitude of Great Britain upon the occupation of Frankfort by the French.

Following the cabinet council it was stated that no action had been taken, but that another meeting would be held at 9 o'clock this evening.

Germany's request for a postponement of the reduction of her army to the peace treaty limits and postponement of the withdrawal of German troops from the Ruhr district and the neutral zones has not been answered. The time limit expires tomorrow night. Wilhelm Mayer, the German charge d'affaires, said he was awaiting instructions from the French government.

This was a day of momentous diplomatic meetings. The council of ambassadors met during the morning when the British note was read. Later the council of the League of Nations was in session, but it was considered unlikely that the diplomats would consider the German question as it was understood that they did not have sufficient data on which to base a decision.

Hugh C. Wallace, the United States Ambassador to France, is without instructions as to America's policy on the new German situation, it was learned. Mr. Wallace attended the meeting of the ambassadorial council.

It was learned from an authoritative source that France might insist upon the right to continue the occupation of Frankfort until July 1 if the allies grant Germany's request to leave the Reichswehr (German government troops) in the Ruhr district until that time.

Officials of the Foreign Office refused to believe that England had definitely disassociated herself from the French action on the Rhine. Fourparlers have been opened between Premier Millerand and Lord Derby, the British ambassador, and they will likely be continued in London. France's chief object, it was explained, is the maintenance of the entente cordiale with England and America which now appears to be seriously menaced.

There were several conferences during the day between high French military leaders and individual members of the government to discuss the German situation.

"The unity of the allies is perfect. All nations understand that France is not pursuing an imperialistic policy but only intends to force Germany to fulfill the treaty. Personally, I am an optimist."

Germany Can't Start War, Says Foch

Paris, April 9. — The evening newspapers quote Marshal Foch as making the following statement:

"It is impossible for Germany to start a new war now. Though we cannot, of course, foresee how everything will end, I believe the present events in Germany create no real danger.

"The unity of the allies is perfect. All nations understand that France is not pursuing an imperialistic policy but only intends to force Germany to fulfill the treaty. Personally, I am an optimist."

Germans Accuse France of Militarism in Ruhr

By International News Service.

Berlin, April 9.—German officials today accused the French of seeking a pretext to occupy the Ruhr district. It was declared that if the French compel the German government to withdraw all its troops from the Ruhr district by Sunday it will result in the Reds again getting the upper hand.

German officials charge that if this happens disorders will again break out and will furnish the French with an excuse to march into the territory to guarantee the delivery of coal, promised to France under the terms of the peace treaty. The Berliner Tageblatt prints a long article against France, accusing her of militarism. In its comment on the French advance the newspaper says:

"The allegation that the German Ruhr program was forced through by the military party is false, even grotesque."

The Deutsche Zeitung bitterly assails the note handed by Premier Millerand to the German charge d'Affaires at Paris.

PRIEST PRESENTED WITH GIFT ON HIS SICK BED

New Bedford, April 9. — The Rev. Father John D. da Valles, who is a patient at St. Luke's Hospital, being treated for intestinal trouble, received among his visitors a delegation from Elm Hill Council, Knights of Columbus, of Dorchester, which presented him a beautiful gold chalice in behalf of the members of the machine gun company attached to the 104th Regiment of the 26th Division, with which regiment Father da Valles served as chaplain in France.

GERMANS LOOK TO AMERICA

Citizens of Frankfort Ask Correspondent if U. S. Will Tolerate Occupation

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND,
Boston American Staff Correspondent.

(Special Cable Dispatch. Copyright, 1920.)

Frankfort-on-Main, April 6 (Tuesday), via London, April 8.—The proclamations issued here after the occupation of the city by the French this morning bears this heading:

"High command of the Allied Army of Occupation on the Rhine."

From this it is deduced here that the French acted with the knowledge and consent of Britain and Belgium. Yet rumors are flying thick and fast that this is not the case, that France's allies oppose the action.

When I called up the Chancellor's office at Berlin on the long distance 'phone this (Tuesday) morning at 9 o'clock, surprise was expressed when I asked what effect the occupation of Frankfort had or might have.

It developed that the occupation of this and other German towns by the French was not known in Berlin until I telephoned the news. I was told that no notice of such an intention on the part of France had been received. The official at the other end of the wire was anxious to know whether I was quite certain that Frankfort was really occupied.

Here one meets that singular phenomenon that is observed in Europe wherever people feel themselves unjustly dealt with by foreign might; the supremely childlike faith of the people in the justice of America.

AMERICAN BOAT ASHORE IN CHESAPEAKE BAY

LONDON—It is officially announced in Tokio that the Japanese government has no ulterior purpose in the occupation of Vladivostok and that the only motive is maintenance of order. The revolutionary Russians in Vladivostok have been disarmed.

ROME — Reinforcement troops were today ordered to Viareggio, Carrara and Massa as a result of "serious news" about labor disturbances. The strikes at Bologna and Pisa have ended, but those at Leghorn, Civitas and Vecchia continue.

BERLIN—Lieutenant Count Kalnein of the German army was killed by a French patrol near Friedberg, according to information received here. He is said to have been seeking a conference with the French commanders when the patrols clashed.

LONDON—Owing to the serious international situation Premier Lloyd George is likely to postpone his departure for San Remo, Italy, where the supreme council is to meet April 21.

BURGLARY INSURANCE RATES TO BE RAISED

New York, April 9.—Rates for burglary insurance will be increased here, it was announced after a meeting of the Burglary Insurance Underwriters' Association. The rates were increased 20 per cent. in December but an additional increase has been made necessary by a big jump in the cost of appraisal.

This Skin Peeler All the Rage in Society

There is a growing tendency among women of culture and fashion to pay more attention to hygienic means of preserving their charms. The advent of mercolized wax doubtless has been largely responsible for this. This remarkable substance produces complexions so natural in appearance, so magnetically beautiful, artificial complexions are no longer desired. Instead of "doctoring" an offensive skin, the skin is peeled off. The wax peels the skin so gradually, in such fine particles, no discomfort is experienced. A fresher, younger skin beneath, wholly in evidence within a week or two, is lily white, satiny soft and smooth. It's not a painted-over complexion, but a brand new one. That's why mercolized wax has become such a rage among society folk. The wax is put on nights like cold cream and washed off mornings. All druggists have it, of course; one ounce (still the advertisement).

IF YOUR EARS RING WITH HEAD NOISES

If you have roaring, buzzing noises in your ears, are getting hard of hearing and fear Catarrhal Deafness, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength) and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal trouble of the ears, is hard of hearing or has head noises should give this prescription a trial.

LAUD AMERICAN DAYLIGHT FIGHT

Business Men Express Thanks for Campaign to Change Time by Law.

through a law which will give to practically 4,000,000 people of this State an extra hour a day of daylight for seven months of the year. An hour of night has been exchanged for an hour of light, and just for the asking. Eventually the whole eastern time zone should adopt the measure.

"There should be no confusion in operating under the new time. Cleveland and Detroit for many years used two standards of time, and careful inquiries brought out the fact that practically everyone in those cities preferred the advanced time. It is fair to make the claim that the people of Massachusetts are as intelligent as the people of Cleveland and Detroit.

"I hope everyone in Massachusetts, especially those engaged in newspaper work, will do everything possible to straighten out any confusion there may be at first, and make this new law a success from the start."

JOHN A. PARKS, member Chamber of Commerce daylight saving committee: "As one of those interested in seeking legislation making daylight saving effective in Massachusetts, I wish to give due thanks to the American for its able and zealous efforts in behalf of this measure.

"Daylight saving is not an experiment; it has been and will continue to be a distinct success. There are over a million workingmen and women who will be directly affected and who appreciate this beneficent law which will give them an added hour of daylight and sunlight for the next six months.

"Add to this million the several million additional members of the families of these workers, and then, if you will, consider the professional men and women, the business men and their employes, and even the men and women of leisure, comprising in all these groups nearly all of our inhabitants, and you have so many million people grateful to those who made this bill possible, including His Excellency the Governor, and the members of the Great and General Court, that all must be conscious of a feeling that it was well worth while.

"My own early life in the factories, with a fair portion of the day under artificial light, has made me a most earnest advocate of daylight saving. This added hour of sunlight each day means human economy. It means less disease, less tuberculosis, less physical and mental effort, less likelihood of accidental injury; more time for home life, for health, happiness and all the outdoor recreations, including baseball, swimming, golf and tennis, and more of all the things which made life worth while. Massachusetts has done well to add this daylight saving law to her many other far-reaching and beneficial laws, in her own interest and for the future welfare of her citizens."

GEORGE N. CRAIG, secretary Boston Gardeners' and Florists' Association and ex-Master of Eaton Grange— "As a farmer I want to thank the American for the gallant battle it waged for the daylight saving bill. Opposition of some farmers to the bill was based on puerile nonsense. We can farm just as well under daylight saving time as any other time. Besides it will give city folks an opportunity to have backyard gardens. Again I wish to commend the American. It can always be counted upon to champion worthy causes."

B. F. SMITH, Penn Metal Company: "As a member of a firm employing a large number of persons, I believe I am expressing their thanks when I say that the American has again done the community a service in giving wide publicity to the daylight saving bill. What the extra hour of daylight means to workmen cannot be estimated. It means more fresh air and recreation so that they will do much better work. The American has performed a distinct service."

W. L. WALES, Brown-Wales Company— "Manufacturers receive with delight the news that the Governor has signed the daylight saving bill, because an extra hour of daylight to work in home gardens and for recreation will go far to increase the efficiency of workmen. The American deserves the highest praise for helping get this measure through the Legislature. It printed the facts on the situation and gave much publicity to the movement. It is a victory no less for the community than the American."

FELIX VORENBERG of the Gilchrist Company— "The Boston American did a great deal to secure the passage of the Daylight Saving Act in this State, through efficient publicity. Its editorials in advocacy of the measure helped a great deal to form intelligent public opinion, as well as the numerous articles in the news columns. The passage of this act will mean a great deal to the workers of the State in better health and more opportunity for healthful recreation in the open."

JOHN SHEPARD, JR., Shepard Norwell Company— "I feel that the Boston American has done a great deal toward securing the passage of this measure and believe that the people throughout the State appreciate its efforts. I am greatly in favor of the law and was one of the original advocates of it several years ago."

EDWIN A. SHUMAN, A. Shuman Company— "The Boston American did a great deal to bring about the passage of the Daylight Savings law in Massachusetts, and is to be congratulated for the fine work it has done. The American devoted more space to the subject while the fight was in progress than any other Boston newspaper, and its fine editorial support and news stories have borne fruit. The American has done great work. I think the passage of the law is a wonderful thing."

H. W. FITTS, New England Structural Company— "Our operatives signed a petition that went to Washington asking for a national daylight saving law. When that failed we hoped that something would be done locally. Our operatives very much appreciate the passage of this law, as their work is usually arduous and they must have relief. Many of them secure that relief in home gardens. The passage of the bill is an excellent thing."

DR. EDWARD O. OTIS—"Passage of the daylight saving bill should result in an improvement in the health of the community, more particularly the workingman, who is confined to-inside work. It means more hours in the open for him. I want to commend the American for the whole-hearted way in which it co-operated in bringing about this beneficial legislation. It has again done a distinct service to the community."

ROBERT BURGESS, General Manager, Norfolk Mills, East Boston— "Our operatives favor the passage of the daylight saving law. It was very nice of the Boston American to help secure the passage of the law. I am glad it has gone through."

H. F. RUSSELL, New England Dressed Meat and Wool Company— "I read the Boston American every day, and I must commend on the splendid manner in which it urged enactment of the daylight saving bill. It is another evidence of its progressive policy. The extra hour of daylight afforded will go far towards promoting the health and happiness of the community. It will bring our State in uniformity with other States that have decided to use the additional Summer daylight."

CHARLES L. BIRD, Secretary of New England Manufacturing Confectioners' Association— "Our industry has been very enthusiastic about daylight saving and have attended the hearings at the State House favoring passage of the law. We are glad that it has become a law in this State. I am glad that the American has done what it has done to bring about the passage of the law."

FREEMAN HINCKLEY, of Wrenn Brothers & Co— "Stock brokers and bankers here receive with delight news that the Governor has signed the daylight saving bill. I believe it was the only sane thing for the Governor to do. Now the banking business of Boston will dovetail with that of New York, which is the main centre of banking and commodity markets. The Boston American was again on the right track in strongly advocating the bill. Its news stories and editorials presented the facts so that the people could see the importance of passing the bill. The American again blazed the way in progressive legislation."

GLEASON WOOD, Assistant Superintendent Waltham Watch Company— "I feel very grateful for what the Boston American has done in helping bring about the daylight saving law. The management of the Waltham Watch Company favors daylight saving. We have tried it here and found it a fine thing. Because of the extensive use of their eyes by our workmen it is necessary to pick out the best part of the day and use it to the best advantage. Daylight means everything to our employes in their work, as many of them use magnifying glasses all day. The law will prove very beneficial to our employes who took a vote on the question and strongly favor it."

LOUIS RIVERS, General Manager C. F. Hovey Company: "I believe the daylight savings law is a fine thing, and the Boston American is to be congratulated for the part it played in bringing out its passage."

RICHARD J. SAVAGE, Keaney & Savage: "The Boston American has done a fine piece of work in helping bring about the passage of the Daylight Savings law. Governor Coolidge is to be commended for signing the bill. I feel that the success of the measure's passage is due in large part to the manner in which the American fought for it. This is but one of the many instances in which the Boston American has fought the people's battle. I wish to commend your great newspaper for the way it does things. If it believes in a cause it advocates it without mincing words. It does not sit idly on the fence when there is work to be done for the people."

WILLIAM J. NORCROSS, vice-president and general manager Houghton & Dutton Co.: "I think the Boston American did a good job; I think everybody did a good job in their work to bring about the passage of the Daylight Savings law. It will help everybody, from the bricklayer to the business man. Until this measure was up I never knew that the farmer worked by the clock. I always supposed he milked the cows when they had to be milked and that he made hay when it was time to make it. I can't understand how anyone could oppose such a law, and as a matter of fact, I don't know of anyone who does oppose it. I suppose here will lay eggs at the same time even if the time is changed."

JOHN C. COOPER, Industrial Relations Manager, Boston Rubber Company, Malden: "I think the work the Boston American did was very valuable in putting across the Daylight Saving Law. The American kept the matter before the people. Its work must have had a big influence on the Legislature, especially at the critical period when the vote was taken. We are all very much pleased with the law. I have talked with a number of our employes and they are very happy over its passage. We feel that it should go into effect every year. There is no doubt that the extra hour of daylight helps the health of workers, especially men and women who are shut in factories. It is a very important thing to such persons. It was a great help to our employes last year. The difference in their health was noticeable."

GEORGE MITTEN, Treasurer, Jordan Marsh Company— "We all feel that the enactment of this law is an excellent thing for the working people, especially for people in the cities who are confined indoors so much. It gives them a chance to get in the open another hour each day for work in gardens and general recreation. Our employes voted on the question, with the result that 98 per cent. favored daylight saving. I should say the Boston American has done good work in its advocacy of the measure."

EVERETT B. MOORE, Chadbourne & Moore, Inc., Chelsea— "We in the textile trade feel that the law is a good measure. We believe it will result in increased production. Our firm does a good deal of color work —dark work—and it will help increase our production by having more light on the other end of the day. I think the Boston American did good work in helping secure the passage of the bill."

BARBER STRICKEN IN SHOP DIES QUICKLY

Guy Georgiana, a barber, of No. 87 Henley street, Charlestown, was taken suddenly ill at his shop at No. 12 Wapping street while about to shave a customer. He was rushed to the Relief Hospital, where he died in a short time. He leaves a wife and four children.

Careless Shampooing Spoils the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any pharmacy. It is very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.—Advertisement.

ADVERTISE YOUR WANTS IN THE BOSTON AMERICAN

DEMOCRATIC OPPOSITION TO WORLD LEAGUE STRONG.

The dominant issue of the presidential primary and election will be the League of Nations. It will be the most important issue in the election of delegates from this State to the Democratic National convention.

Senator Walsh has said that President Wilson will be unable to secure an indorsement of his policy at San Francisco. The voters are entitled to know the attitude on this issue of the candidates who ask to be elected to represent them. Accordingly, the American has sent a telegram to every candidate for delegate to the Democratic National Convention asking this question:

"What is your attitude on the League of Nations as advocated by President Wilson?"

[illegible] to the League of Nations as advocated by President Wilson. If we issue have a league, I favor an [illegible] the position of United States Senator [illegible]

DAVID I. WALSH, United States Senator—My attitude on the League of Nations has been expressed in my vote in the United States Senate. I have not, of course, changed from that attitude.

RICHARD H. LONG, of Framingham, candidate for delegate-at-large—Replying to your telegram, I am opposed to the League of Nations as advocated by President Wilson. I favor a League of Nations with reservations protecting American rights and independence as expressed in the platform of the last Democratic State convention held in Massachusetts.

JOSEPH P. O'CONNELL, candidate for delegate-at-large—I am absolutely opposed to the League of Nations as advocated by President Wilson. We have plenty of trouble in this country and we had better stay at home and mind our own business. My judgment of the proposed League of Nations as advocated by President Wilson is that it amounts to an insurance policy protecting the British Empire and all its accessions and annexations, fraudulently and forcibly against the will of unpressed peoples.

SENATOR DANIEL A. MARTIN of Holyoke, First District—I am unalterably opposed to the Wilson League of Nation. I am opposed to International or any other foreign policy that can bind American posterity to any pledge save the safety and welfare and happiness of Americans. I am a nationalist.

DEWITT C. DeWOLF of Chester, First District—Answering your telegram asking my proposition on the League of Nations, I do not hesitate to say that I believe a League of Nations to be the world's best hope. I am not a bitter ender on either side. I have no fellowship with the uncompromising and extreme position of the Borah type. With adequate interpretations which should amply safeguard American traditions, I am for a League of Nations.

MICHAEL J. HARVEY of Pittsfield, First District—Am for the league provided proper reservations safeguarding American sovereignty are incorporated. If these reservations are not to be had, am opposed to the league.

DAVID T. CLARK of Williamstown, First District—I favor the League of Nations without reservations. I favor, however, ratification with mutilations rather than longer chaos creating delay.

LAWRENCE F. O'BRIEN of Springfield, Second District—In regard to your telegram as to my attitude on the League of Nations, will say I am heartily in accord with the position taken by our junior Senator, David I. Walsh.

THOMAS H. SHEA of Fitchburg, Third District—Decidedly opposed to President Wilson's attitude on the League of Nations. I favor Senator Walsh's views

CHARLES F. CAMPBELL of Worcester, Fourth District—I am opposed to the League of Nations as advocated by President Wilson. If we can have a League of Nations which does not [illegible] I favor an American League. President Wilson's League does not [illegible] I am opposed to any League of Nations which provides for the suppression by armed force of the ambition of any nations to govern themselves. President Wilson's League of Nations does both. Added to and beyond this, it provides that the world shall be governed by a super-state, of which we are to be citizens, officers with power to suppress [illegible] and to put our sons and children into the [illegible] war without their consent. How I am opposed to the League of Nations plan advocated by President Wilson my position at all to the judgment of the people themselves?

PATRICK BOWEN of Boston, Seventh District—I am against President Wilson's League of Nations because it smacks of [illegible] and makes Ireland [illegible] No one can support it who is not pro-British

DANIEL H. COUGHLIN of Boston, Thirteenth District—I am unalterably opposed to the League of Nations as advocated by President Wilson.

WILLIAM H. POWERS of Brockton, Fourteenth District—I am opposed to a League of Nations as advocated by President Wilson. I stand firmly with Senator Walsh of Massachusetts for a League of Nations with reservations fully protecting our own rights and the right of all people to govern themselves.

JOHN E. SWIFT of Boston—I am in full accord with the views of United States Senator David I. Walsh as set forth in his remarkable speech in the Senate last Fall on the League of Nations.

REP. FRANK A. MANNING of Brockton—I favor the attitude of United States Senator David I. Walsh on the League of Nations.

THREE SENTENCED FOR ROBBERY OF SAILOR

Three youths were given indefinite sentences in the House of Correction by Judge Bruce today in the Malden Court for larceny. They are Gerald J. Murray, twenty; Walter J. Harrington, eighteen, and James E. Igo, twenty-two. They were found guilty of stealing money, a diamond ring and other trinkets from Ralph E. In Malden they drank Jamaica ginger, Italian wine and "near beer," it was testified.

ATTEMPT TO FORESTALL PAPERMAKERS' STRIKE

Holyoke, April 9—In an effort to forestall the papermakers' union's attempt to secure a 12½ per cent. wage increase by May 1, officials of Crocker, McElwain Company, one of the largest paper manufacturing concerns here, today distributed individual contracts to their workmen. The contracts call for present wages and conditions. Union officials believe the workmen will turn down the individual contracts at Sunday's meeting. The employes have taken a secret strike vote. If the manufacturers do not comply with the request for increased wages a strike may result May 1.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Look Young! Nobody can tell if you use Grandmother's simple recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Here's the only way to get this mixture: Mix to make it at home, which is musty and troublesome. Nowadays you just ask at any drug store for Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and you will get it ready to use. This old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, is splendid.

Don't stay gray. Try it. Nobody can possibly tell that you darkened your hair as you do it so naturally and evenly. Just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark, luxuriant, youthful appearing hair. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease. Advertisement.

STATE BRANCH OF PROTESTANT FRIENDS AIDS IRISH DRIVE

Although Massachusetts Branch of the Protestant Friends of Irish Freedom has been formed less than sixty days, the membership is already enrolled and subscriptions for its maintenance as well as subscriptions for Liberty bond certificates, are being received, the treasurer reports, in large numbers at the headquarters of the organization, care of Joseph Bowal & Co., bankers, 32-34 Cross street, Boston.

TO RECRUIT MEMBERS.

Arrangements have been made for a mass meeting to be held in Cambridge and one in Back Bay, and in Pittsfield in western Massachusetts. Public meetings will be held in this and other cities of the state within the next few weeks, it is announced.

Edward M. Pax, Boston banker, recently left to consult General Pershing, Irish consul-general to Washington and other officials, as president of the association.

The purposes of the organization, as explained last night by President Pax, are to aid the Irish people in gaining independence and to prove to Americans that the religious issue is not a part of the Irish question.

JUBILATION MEETINGS.

Other officers of the Massachusetts branch are: Vice-president, the Rev Roland D. Sawyer of Ware, member of the State Legislature; treasurer, Albert Alderman of Boston, secretary, J. J. Hastings of Boston, who served as lieutenant in the British Flying Corps during the war, and James Holland, publicist.

Jubilation meetings in cities and towns where the Irish bond drive has been successfully closed are planned by the directors of the American Commission on Irish Independence. These meetings will not interfere with the plans being outlined for the parade scheduled to be held in Boston shortly, plans for which are now under way. Prominent speakers have been assigned to over these meetings many of which will be held in and about Boston Sunday afternoon and evening.

EVERETT CELEBRATION.

Tonight in Emmet Hall, second street, Everett, the members and friends of the Robert Emmet Branch of the Friends of Irish Freedom, and the committee in charge of the Irish Jubilee in that city will gather to celebrate "going over the top." The workers will include Thomas H. Mahony, Rev. Joseph Fitzgerald, pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception of Everett, Rev. Thomas J. Walsh, pastor of the Church of Our Lady of Perpetual Help, Chelsea, the Rev. Fr. Pallion of the French Catholic Church of Everett, Daniel F. Irwin and John J. Casey of the Everett Public Works Department. Twelve Leinster County clubs will take part in the big bond drive celebration to be held in Paine Memorial Hall, No. 8 Appleton street, Monday evening, under the auspices of the Leinster Athletic Association. The speakers scheduled are Edward F. McGrady, John J. Foley of the Irish Self-Determination Committee, Frederick W. Mansfield, former Massachusetts Attorney General, Thomas H. Dever, Williams Cunnell heads the committee of arrangements.

MRS. OTTERSON INDICTED

New Hampshire Woman Will Be Arraigned on Charge of Murder Next Monday

Concord, N. H., April 9—The Grand Jury has indicted Mrs. Marion Loynes Otterson for murder and she will be arraigned in court Monday, charged with slaying her brother-in-law, Maurice Otterson last October, in the family home at Hooksett.

Mrs. Otterson was arrested shortly after the murder, despite her protestations of innocence, and has been confined to jail since. She has steadfastly insisted that robbers entered the house, overpowered her, shot and killed her brother-in-law and escaped in an automobile.

New City Council of 15 Members Planned

The Charter Guards and the G. A. have put their guns on a bill that appeared before the State Committee of Metropolitan Affairs.

The bill provides for the abolishment of the present Boston City Council, and to establish in its place a council of fifteen members to be elected by districts. They will be elected for two-year terms.

If this bill is voted upon favorably, it will be submitted to the voters in the coming election for them to accept or reject.

The following wards will elect one member: Wards 1 and 2, 3 and 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10, 11 and 12, 13 and 14, 14 and 15, 17 and 18, 19 and 20, 21 and 24, 22 and 23, 25 and 26.

It is reported the bill has the joint support of Martin Lomasney and Charles H. Innes, Republican leader.

Buy Your Clothing With Both Eyes Open

No matter what you want, there's always someone who is apparently ready to supply it. Everybody would like to see lower clothing prices. Consequently there are those who are ready to quote them. But before you take up with any of these supposed-to-be alluring propositions, which apparently herald a welcome recession in the H. C. of L., look carefully at what you're going to get for your money.

No one is going to give you something for nothing now any more than they ever did. 1920 Clothing cannot be sold at 1918 prices without robbing it of more quality than you can afford to lose. Keep your eyes open. Look for quality. Its absence means dissatisfaction regardless of the price.

In fact, it's not nearly so disappointing or extravagant to overpay to make sure of quality, as it is to underpay and miss it entirely. There's no need of doing either while this Live Store is available. Our greater value-giving is as much a matter of higher quality as of lower price.

EDWARDS JUMP ANGERS 'Y. D.'

Resent Second 'Slight' to Old Leader Outranked by Two Juniors

The War Department's action in appointing two junior staff officers "over the head" of General Clarence R. Edwards, former commander of the 26th Division, has resulted in bitter resentment among Massachusetts military men. The men of General Edwards' old command look upon the appointment as another slight to their leader.

The two officers nominated by the War Department are to have the permanent rank of major general. Both are juniors in rank to General Edwards who had headed the list for over twelve years. The officers to receive the permanent rank are Colonel Henry Jervey who received his present rank in 1917, and served in Washington during the war, and Brigadier General Charles P. Summerall who received his present rank on February 1919, and commanded a regular army division overseas.

Head of Navy Squad Testifies Men Became Parties to Immoral Acts

New York, April 9—That naval shipyard investigators who conducted the anti-vice crusade at Newport, R. I., a year ago, became parties to immoral acts in getting evidence was admitted before a naval court of inquiry here.

The principal witness was Edwin Arnold, chief machinist's mate and head of a squad of such investigators. He said that it was sometimes necessary for his men to become parties to acts committed or about to be committed in order to get arrest of sailors.

He was unable to say just who advised him to use this method of collecting evidence, but was inclined to believe it was the Navy department of the New York Naval Training station, not the judge advocate's office.

Arnold said all his reports ultimately were submitted to Franklin D. Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

RED SOX AND GIANTS MEET IN FOURTEENTH GAME OF SPRING JAUNT

UNSTEADINESS OF HARPER SPELLED DEFEAT AT NORFOLK

Reading, Pa., April 9—The Red Sox and Giants are in this man's town much against their respective wills. Neither the players nor the managers care a whole lot about playing a game with means nothing at all in the way of glory, not to mention gate receipts, to either side

Whatever shades the Red Sox may have had concerning the superiority of the American League brand of baseball were a commencing some days ago. The final exercises of the Bostonians are taking place in the game down in Norfolk, Va., which was won by the Giants 7 to 1, it was the ninth defeat in thirteen games for the Sox.

The worst thing about the contest was that it was the fourth in the Red Sox string in which Harper was tagged with the defeat. Harper started the season with a reputation for being a pitcher who could put over a lot of difficulty in getting the plate in front of the Sox batsmen, but the Norfolk exhibitions by Harry Harper was not a to the worst performance of the lot.

The Red Sox outfield had its troubles. Hooper started in two places at once, and it hard to tell where he was playing and he made the weakest departure on the team. The fans at Redland Park are quite a treat to the gaping locals.

One of the new utility infielders, Charley Black, is likely to be sent on this way shortly. Barrow feels that Black needs more seasoning and tried to induce him to go to the Portsmouth (Va.) team, but the player balked, and now Barrow is at a loss as to just how he will place him.

As most of the public playgrounds are within 1000 feet of churches the law which was construed to forbid playing ball in the grounds near a place of worship is the wrong interpretation was given out. The distance clause applied only in cases where the grounds were not regular playgrounds.

JACKSON CLASS MEET WON BY SOPHOMORES

Sophomore class, with thirty-eight points, won the interclass meet at Jackson College. Seniors were second with thirteen points, the Juniors had nine and the Freshmen trailed with three. Two records fell during the contests. Dorothea Cunningham established a high jump mark at four feet nine and one-quarter inches, while Helen Neal broke the vaulting figures with an effort of five feet one inch. Miss Cunningham and Miss Neal tied for individual scoring

BRAVES AND TIGERS BILLED TO MEET IN LAST GAME OF SERIES TODAY

PLAYERS AND MANAGERS ALIKE PEEVED BY BAD WEATHER

By NICK FLATLEY.

Cumberland, Md., April 9.—The Boston Braves have staggered thus far, with plenty of snow flakes and cinders tangled in the chaplets that adorn their alabaster brows. They may get a game in today, but it will not have any more effect on the series with the Tigers than the yes vote on in Massachusetts has on the arid condition of affairs in general.

They have won six from the swatting Detroiters, and the best the enemy can do now is chop off five wins by taking all the remaining games of the series. It didn't look any too much like pastiming early today, but both managers have decided to put on a scrap if there was any possibility. Four days of vacationing have made athletes and their bosses sick of this cruel world and a slight moderation in temperature during the night augured something faintly resembling baseball conditions along about game time. Things are so tough that even the managers haven't any more ideas when you interview them, and that represents the ultimate in toughness.

Both are afraid that the long layoff may have softened up arms, but state that good weather from now out will bring the teams to the mark in as good shape as could be desired. It's a cinch that the performers will not be bothered a bit by cold and snow flurries. The past four days have been great training for the climate that generally greets baseball.

Hasn't Snowed Much Since Wednesday

It hasn't snowed much since Wednesday and even if a game cannot be played the squads will be sent out to do a bit of road work. Then the party will split up, the Tigers going to Indianapolis and the Braves to Lancaster, Pa., or rather most of the Braves. The regular line-up and a couple of pitchers make that jump, and the rest of the squad entrains for New York. A game will be played Sunday in Jersey City, and the Fordham nine may be taken on for a short fray Monday.

Another gut in the squad was to be made today, as Stallings has decided that some of his material was simply filling up space. At the moment of rushing to the wire he hadn't named the victims, but chances are that a couple of pitchers, and perhaps an outfielder will say farewell to the big leagues for the time being. Seems rather tough to carry a bird along the hectic route just travelel, and then cast him forth when the regular hotels and things are just a step out in front. But that's baseball, which isn't any more sentimental now than the sawdust business.

Little Richard Rudolph and Henry Gowdy, who will be the Braves' battery in the opening game unless the unexpected happens, were billed for the big town which didn't make either star at all angry. The vets have had plenty of trouping, and as seems to be the general condition, aren't any too strong for exhibition jaunts. As the players put it, it will not be difficult to spend the winner's share of the Spring series.

Baseball Results

Senators 13, Reds 4.
Louisville 7, Phillies 3.

GRADY TO MEET K. O. MILLER

Hard-Hitting Battlers to Box Twelve Rounds at C. A. C. Show Tonight

Bob McKirdy has arranged another one of those all-action shows for the Commercial A. C. tonight. K. O. Miller of the South End, who packs a sweet wallop in each hand, will have Young Grady of Vermont as an opponent in a twelve-round scrap. Grady also has made a reputation as a hard hitter, and it looks as though the fans should witness a lively tilt.

Miller has a kaye record which surpasses those of Kloby and Muggsy. Four-fifths of his opponents have passed out of the picture before the final round.

The South End youth intends to continue his merry ring drive this p. m. at the expense of Grady. He avers he will give the latter the busiest evening that young man has had since he decided to become a box fighter.

Grady is on the scene of the contest. He has beaten Joe Eagan, Butch O'Hagen, Soldier Bolty and Tom Sawyer.

Young Gould of Brockton and Nap Lajoie, who hails from Woonsocket, will furnish the thrills in the semi-final of ten sessions. This looks like another peppery bout.

Young Kansas of Providence will oppose Young Bora of Cambridge in the opening six-round frolic. Ned Griffin of the North End wants to meet the winner of this mill. Young Cunningham of East Boston and Young Naps will go over the jumps in another six-round number.

AL CALZONE BATTLES JOE JAWSON TOMORROW

Al Calzone, who lost a hairline decision to Frank Tillo at Mechanics Building the other night, will be back in action tomorrow afternoon at Milford with Joe Jawson of Milwaukee as an opponent. Calzone made a big hit with the fans by his willing work against Tillo. Many of those who witnessed the mill were of the opinion the Milford kayo artist was entitled to draw at the least. Calzone is not worrying any because he lost the verdict. He says he will dispose of Jawson at Milford and then go after another match with Tillo.

SAVAGE BOXES DRAW WITH ARMSTRONG

Montpelier, Vt., April 9.—Jack Savage, the fighting policeman of Brockton, and Carlo Armstrong, champion heavyweight of the navy, fought twelve rounds to a draw. Young Collins of Cambridge knocked out Harry Loring of Charlestown in the third round.

MANAGERS OF MUGGSY AND THOMAS POST FORFEITS

Next Monday evening at the Commonwealth A. A., K. O. Muggsy of East Boston will endeavor to go over the twelve-round route to a victory over Battling Thomas of this city. The managers of the rival boxers have posted a $200 forfeit with the American for the appearances of their protegee.

Muggsy is training hard and if condition counts for anything he feels confident that he will come out on top.

ORLANDO LOOKS LIKE COMING WRESTLING CHAMPION

By FRANK O'CONNOR.

The most promising newcomer to catch-as-catch-can seen in Boston for some years was uncovered in Orlando, the youthful Swedish heavyweight, at Tuohey's wrestling tournament at Mechanics Building. Although defeated by the paralyzing headlock of "Strangler" Lewis in one hour and five minutes, he, nevertheless, revealed distinctive class in science, speed and gameness.

Even as other season or two under the management of a man like Tuohey and with the added experience, weight and development that would naturally follow, Orlando seemingly will be a world-beater. And by the same token, "Strangler" Lewis looked a bad bet for his match next week with Joe Stecher.

Orlando was a puzzle to the Strangler up to the last minute. The young Swede turned the deadly headlock into a hand hold and wrist hold attack on the Kentuckian that made him writhe. Repeatedly he brought the "Strangler" almost flat with an arm lock or wrist lock from a standing position. He showed a body scissors from which Lewis pounded clear with greater difficulty than from any newcomer has pinned on him in the Hub. All the way through Orlando outwrestled his man, yielding neutralized holds, upsetting holds and turning leverage and displaying remarkable versatility that included a wicked toe hold.

Twice Broke Away From Headlock

Twice before the hour mark, Orlando had been flopped by the headlock to finally jerk out. Here he showed his gameness by coming back dazed and carrying the battle to the "Strangler." Just before the end Orlando had been badly punished by the double wrist locks of the Kentuckian. At this period, Lewis himself was weakening under the terrific pace. Then came the headlock, the paralyzing effect of which won the bout.

Jimmy Londos, the Greek champion, nearly bit off more than he could chew in Mayaki, the Jap Jujitsu expert. Londos won with an arm, scissors and wrist lock in 43 minutes, 45 seconds, but not before he had indulged in the most hair-raising rough and tumble seen here for many a moon. Jimmy was palpably afraid of his opponent until the half hour mark when he turned loose. The match showed that Jujitsu without the jacket is ineffective.

Cyclone Burns defeated Varina, the Belgian, with an upright crotch in 21 minutes and 10 seconds, the latter resigning the fall.

HARVARD VARSITY CREW RACES SECONDS SATURDAY

The varsity and second crew at Harvard are to have another brush on the Charles Saturday. Coach Bill Haines is grooming both for the fray but, naturally enough, is backing the regulars to win. The rearranged lineup, Bill believes, is stronger than any heretofore and will bring home the bacon. The present order is: stroke, Jenney; 7, Pond; 6, McCagg; 5, Sedgwick; 4, Kane; 3, Terry; 2, Duncan, bow, Davis; cox, Peirson.

Who Discovered RICORO?
Told by a Minister.

"...And I, too, was wedded for life—to Ricoro."

"I know well who discovered Ricoro cigars," declared the minister, as he gazed over the tops of his glasses and beamed expansively at his vestrymen.

"The disclosure of this profound secret came to me—not by divine revelation, but through the performance of what is perhaps my most pleasurable office—the joining of two souls in wedlock.

"The groom was a keen, earnest young man. The bride had something very sweet and womanly about her. They came to the parsonage late one evening.

"'Doctor', said the young man, as we shook hands in parting, 'you've insured my lifelong happiness. May I offer you this?'

"'This' was a bank-note wrapped around a cigar. I remember the bank-note vaguely—it was sizable. But as to the cigar—its charm, its rich bouquet—well, gentlemen, as I said before, he was a most excellent young man. That cigar was a Ricoro."

Sooner or later, you'll discover Ricoro—and the sooner the better. You'll discover in Ricoro the subtle bouquet—the rich and balmy mellowness—peculiar to fine imported cigars. And Ricoro is imported from Porto Rico duty free. Price? No more than ordinary domestic brands! A dozen shapes and sizes—8c to 3-for-50c. Sold only in United Cigar Stores. "Thank You!"

PLUNGE RECORD IS BROKEN

Anderson of Andover Floats for 77 Feet Six Inches at N. E. A. A. A. U. Meet

John Anderson, captain of the Andover Academy swimming team, set a new plunge mark for the New England A. A. A. U. championships when he floated 77 feet 6 inches in that event at the titular meet conducted in the Brookline municipal pool. The record he bettered was one of 76 feet 1¼ inches held by Irving Zacquith of the Ocean Pier baths.

The Brookline Swimming Club collected three titles, Clark Green winning the furlong event, while Elliot Church finished first in the diving and Ed Muir led the field to the rope in the 150 yards backstroke. Win Marling of the B. A. A. won the 100-yard championship and Stewart Damen of Amherst College was first in the 50 yards.

Richard Skinner, last year's diving champion, the only title-holder defending his crown, was dethroned by Church. The competition in the diving was exceptionally close, one-half point separating the two when the figuring was completed. In the 220-yard event Don Richardson held the lead until the turn for the final lap, when a sprint put Green in front to win by less than a foot.

Another close race was the 50 yards, when all three place winners came to the rope in a blanket finish.

BIG SPORT YEAR FOR EXETER

Track and Crew Schedules Give Young Athletes But Little Rest

By TOM POWER.

From all reports received from Exeter both the crew and track team will have one of the most successful seasons for many years. The schedules in both sports start the first week in May and end on June 5. An innovation is the forming of a freshman meet and the holding of the annual Andover-Exeter dual meet a week earlier than usual.

Preparations for the track team are especially encouraging, with plenty of new material together with Captain Watterman, Douglass and Jones. Six meets are on the track schedule with the Penn Relay Carnival for an early setter as Le represented at this meet by a fast quartet.

Harvard Freshmen and the M I T Freshmen will meet at Exeter on the two Saturdays preceding the Harvard-Pennsylvania meet at the Stadium, which takes place May 22.

The Dartmouth freshman meet, which is scheduled for May 29, will be the first meetings between the two teams.

The annual Andover-Exeter meet will end the present season for the track athletes one week later than in former years.

Six races complete the schedule for the crew. The first race of the season is with the alumni the second Saturday in May, and the last comes with the Harvard freshman at Exeter on June 5.

Three of the Greater Boston crews are scheduled to meet the academy four. Brighton High and the Huntington School form a triangular race with Exeter May 15, and the Boston College second crew meets the Exeter four on the following Wednesday.

Exeter will meet the Middlesex first and second crews May 22, and the season will be closed with the two races between the Harvard freshman and Exeter on May 29 and June 5.

The first race with Harvard is to take place on the Charles River, while the second meeting will be at Exeter.

The schedule for crew:

May 8, Exeter Alumni; 15, Huntington School and Brookline High at Exeter; 18, Boston College high school crew at Exeter, 22, Middlesex first and second fours at Exeter, 29, Harvard Freshmen at Cambridge, June 5, Harvard Freshmen at Exeter.

Track schedule.

May 1, Relay team at the Penn Relay Carnival; 8, Harvard Freshmen at Exeter, 15, M. I. T. Freshmen at Exeter, 22, Harvard Interscholastics at Cambridge, 29, Dartmouth Freshmen at Exeter, June 5, Exeter-Andover dual meet at Exeter.

OUTDOOR TENNIS SEASON GETS UNDER WAY AT PINEHURST

Pinehurst, N. C., April 9.—The curtain was officially rung up on the outdoor tennis season with the starting of the men's singles in the North and South championship tournament at Pinehurst.

The first two rounds of the men's singles were disposed of in the course of the day. The three most serious contenders for championship honors came through in straight sets. William T. Tilden, 3rd, the National doubles and indoor singles champion, won his first round match by the default of Richard Rouse of Springfield, Mass., and defeated Kenneth Simmons of Yale in the second round in 6 -1, 6—2. Simmons put up a surprisingly stiff fight but Tilden, muffled up in a heavy red sweater, forced the fighting at every stage of the contest.

Harold Throckmorton, the New Jersey champion, who is here with Mrs. Throckmorton on their honeymoon, was inclined to take things easy. He played against H. W. Ballou of Providence in the morning round, and although he won the first set easily enough, 6 to 1, he was forced to step his fastest toward the end of the second and deciding set.

Ballou Took Lead at Outset

Ballou seized the lead at the start, and keeping a game ahead right along, worked the score up to 6—5 and 40—30 in his favor, with only one point needed to win the match. Then the Providence player slipped, sent a lob beyond the base line, lost the next two points, and the next two points, and the game, and followed this by losing the next two games, and the match, 1—7, 6—3.

Throck Morton, took his second round match by default of Fred Howthorne.

Howard Voshell the Metropolitan champion, and third of the trio who comprise the favorites in the singles contest, drew a bye for the first round, and found little difficulty in defeating N. A. Rose of Wellesley Hills, Mass., in the second round. Voshell won, 6—2, 6—0, without overexerting himself.

R. B. Bidwell of the Lonxwood Club, doubles champion, and R. W. Seabury of the Mountain Lakes Club, N. J., provided the feature match of the day. Seabury had all the best of things in the first and won it by 6—4, but the Bostonian had by that time discovered a palpable weakness in his adversary's backhand defence and went to it with the result that he won the second and third sets in 6—3, 6—3. Twenty-three of the twenty-seven games in match were hard fought deuce affairs.

Bidwell to Hook Up With Voshell

Bidwell will hook up with Voshell in the third round, and whatever happens is sure to give the Metropolitan champion a mighty hard match.

Two other good matches on the cards in the same round will be those between Samuel Hardy of the West Side Club, and Carlton Shaefer of Philadelphia, and between Throckmorton and F. C. Baggs of the West Side Club, who won hands-down against Norman Johnson.

Miss Marion Zinderstein, Miss Edith Sigourney and Miss Phyllis Walsh are all expected to come through without much difficulty in the opening session of the women's singles. Miss Zinderstein plays against Miss Judith Jenks of Harbor Beach, Mich.; Miss Sigourney's opponent will be Miss Dorothy Briggs, and Miss Walsh will be opposed by Miss May Ballin.

Miss Leslie Bancroft and Miss Gertrude Della Torre will meet in what should prove a good match, and Mrs. DeForest Candee will play against Miss Florence Ballin. Miss Helen Gilleaudeau and Miss Bertha Sexton are paired.

"MOXIE" FITZPATRICK REPLIES TO HIS CRITICS

Sporting Editor, Boston American

There has been so much ill-advised comment on the decision given by me in the Ponteau-Murphy bout on Tuesday night last, that I feel compelled to call your attention to the following facts:

1. I was amateur champion in the 125 pound class for seven years.

2. It is safe to assume that from that experience in the ring I know the rules governing amateur boxing contests and can detect a foul when committed.

3. I was within four feet of the boxers when Ponteau fouled Murphy.

4. I gave the only decision that could be given under the rules.

Yours sincerely,
THOMAS P. FITZPATRICK,
Medford, Mass.

Basketball Game Stirs Up Students

Auburn, Me., April 9.—Mayor Goss has intervened to stop a student strike at the Edward Little School. Escorted to the courthouse, where the students were massed, he advised them to return to their studies.

Edward Little defeated Haverhill High at basketball. The referee was Dr. Watson of Boston, formerly identified with Haverhill High athletics. William O. Skinner, former Edward Little coach, was the umpire. Haverhill claimed after the game that Skinner officiated under an assumed name, and L. B. Moulton, head master of Edward Little, proclaimed at a student assembly that Skinner be hereafter barred as a coach, and that the picture of the undefeated Edward Little team could not be hung in the trophy room.

JACK RUSSO AND JAWSON TO MINGLE

Jack Russo, Philadelphia lightweight, passed through Boston today on his way to Brockton, where he clashes with Joe Jawson of Milwaukee in a twelve-round bout before Protector Club this evening. Russo has shown to advantage in his tussles in New England rings and feels confident he'll dispose of Jawson. As the latter is one of the best lightweights campaigning in this section of the country, it looks as though the Brockton fans would witness a stirring encasement.

THE YOUNG DIANA

Story of Tense Mystery in Which Heroine Holds Key to Youth

By Marie Corelli

"BUT if any idea had got about that you were the result of his search for an assistant, you would find yourself in an embarrassing position. You would be asked no end of questions, and our charming Baroness Rosarlion would be one of the first to make mischief—but thanks to your admirable self-control, she is silenced."

"Will anything silence her?" said Dimitrius, entering stood for a moment looking at his mother and Diana with a smile. "I doubt it! But Miss May is not at all the kind of woman the baroness would take as suitable for a scientific doctor's assistant—fortunately. She is not old enough."

"Not old enough?' 'and Diana laughed. "Why, what age ought I to be?"

"Sixty at least!" and he laughed with her. "The Baroness is a great deal older than you are, but she still subjugates the fancy of some men. Her idea of a doctor's private secretary or assistant is a kind of Macbeth's witch, too severely schooled in the virtues of ugliness to wear rose-colored chiffon!"

Diana flushed a little as he gave a meaning glance at her graceful drapery—then he added:

"Come out for a moment in the loggia—moonlight is often talked about and written about, but it seldom gives such an impression of itself as on an early Autumn night in Switzerland. Come!"

She obeyed—and as she followed him to the marble loggia where the fountains were still playing, an irresistible soft cry of rapture broke from her lips. There before she looked upon was one of fairy-like enchantment—the moonlight, pearly pure, was spread in long broad waves of white radiance over the lawns in front of the Chateau, and reaching out through the shadows of trees, touched into silver the misty, scarcely discernible peaks of snow-mountains far beyond. A deep silence reigned everywhere—that strange silence so frequently felt in the vicinity of mountains—so that when the bell of the chiming clock set in the turret of the Chateau struck eleven, its sound was almost startling.

Beauty of Night

"This would be a night for a sail on the lake," said Dimitrius. "Some evening you must come."

She made no reply. Her soul was in her eyes—looking mutely at the beauty of the night, while all the old, unsatisfied hunger ached at her heart—the hunger for life at its best and brightest—for the things which were worth having and holding—and absorbed in sudden wave of thought she hardly remembered for the moment where she was.

"Millions of people look at this same moonlight without seeing it," said Dimitrius, after a pause, during which he had watched her attentively. "Millions of people live in the world without knowing anything about it. They—themselves—are to them, the universe. Like insects, they die without having ever known any higher aim of existence. Yet looking on such loveliness as this tonight, do you not feel that something more lasting, more real than the usual mode of life was and is intended for us? Does it not seem a flaw in the Creator's plan that this creation should be letted with such rare beauty and perfection for human beings who do not even see it? Do we make the utmost of our capabilities?"

She turned her eyes away from the moonlit landscape and looked at him with rather a sad smile.

"I cannot tell—I do not know," she answered. "I am not skilled in argument. But what almost seems to me to be the hardest thing in life is, that we have so little time to learn or to understand. As children and as very young people we are too brimful of animal spirits to think about anything—then, when we arrive at 'mature years' we find we are 'shelved' by our fellow-men and women as old and unwanted. Women especially are sneered at for age, as if it were a crime to live beyond one's teens."

"Only the coarsest minds and tongues sneer at a woman's age," said Dimitrius. "They are the part of the common style, and they must grow rich, I see you have suffered from their grunting. That, of course is because you have not put on the matrimonial yoke. You might get as old as the good Abraham's wife, Sara, without a sneer, so long as you had become legitimately aged through waiting on the moods and caprices of a husband!" He laughed, half ironically—then drawing nearer to her by a step, went on in a lower tone

"What would you say if you could win back your youth—not only the youth of your best days, but a youth transfigured to a fairness and beauty far exceeding any that you have ever known? What would you give, if with that youth you could secure an increased mental capacity for enjoying it?—an exquisite vitality?—a delight in life so keen that every beat of your heart should be one of health and joy?—and that you should hold life itself here he paused, and repeated the words slowly—"that you should hold life itself, I say, in a ceaseless series of vibrations as eternal as the making and re-making of universes?"

His dark eyes were fixed upon her face with an intensity of meaning, and a thrill ran through her, half of fear, half of wonderment.

"What would I say?—what would I give? You talk like another Mephistopheles to a female Faustus!" she said, forcing a laugh. "I would not give my soul, because I believe I have a soul, and that it is what God commands me to keep—but I would give everything else"

Part of Life

"Your soul is part of your life," said Dimitrius. "And you could not give that without giving your life as well. I speak of holding your life—that is to say, keeping it. Understand me well! The soul is the external and indestructible principle of which the mechanism of the brain revolves, as the earth revolves round the sun. The soul imparts all light, all heat, all creation and fruition to the brain, though it is but a speck of radiant energy, invisible to the human eye, even through the most powerful lens. It is the immortal embryo of endless existence, and is in whatsoever way it instructs the brain, the brain should be in tune to respond. That the brain seldom responds truly, in the fault of the preponderating animalism of the human race. If you can follow me, still listen."

She listened indeed,—every sense keen and strained to the utmost.

"All ideas, all sentiments, all virtues, all sins, are in the cells of the brain," he went on. "The soul plays on these cells with vibrating touches of light, just as you play on the notes of the piano, or as a typist fingers the keyboard of the machine. On the quality or characteristics of the soul depends the result. Youth is in the cells of the brain. Should the cells become dry and withered, it is because the soul has ceased to charge them with its energy. But when this is the case, it is possible—I say it is possible'—for science to step in. The spark can be re-energized—the cells can be re-charged"

Mad or Sane?

Diana caught her breath. Was he mad'—or sane with a sanity that realises a miracle? She gazed at him as though plunging her eyes into a well of mystery.

He smiled strangely. "Poor lady of mature years'" he said. "You have heard me, have you not? Well, think upon what I have said! I am not mad, be assured'—I am temperate in reason, and cool in blood. I am only a scientist, bent on defying that Angel who keeps the gate of Eden, with the flaming sword who 'keeps the way of the Tree of Life' lest men should take and eat and live for ever! It would not do for men in the aggregate to live for ever, for most of them are little more than mites in a cheese—but as the Prophet Esdras was told: 'This present world is made for the many, but the world to come for the few.' That 'world to come' does not mean a world after death—but the world of here and now—a world 'for the few' who know how to use it, and themselves—a world where the same moonlight as this shines like a robe of woven pearl spread over all human opulence and ignorance, leaving only God's light and wisdom. Look at it once more' make a picture of it in your mind'—and then we resume."

She raised her eyes to the dense purple of the sky, and let them wander over the garden—garden drenched in silver gold—then extended her hand

"Thank you for all—I have told me enough. I shall remember it Good-night'"

Absence of Mind

Professor Meander had arranged to go visiting one evening with his wife. When at last he came down stairs, all dressed up for the occasion, Mrs. Meander cried out in astonishment

"What a horrible tie you've put on, dear! Won't you change it?"

"Certainly, my love," said the professor, retiring quietly.

The lady waited, and then sped on. After half an hour she got impatient and went upstairs to see what was delaying him.

His mind busy with other things, the removal of his tie had set the professor going. By force of habit he had undressed and got into bed.

What's In a Name?

REGINA.

THE Queen of Heaven, Maria, has votaries called by the Italians Regina or Reina. Reina was found more frequently in Florence. In France, Regina became Reine and Reinette, the former also being a favorite in Germany. All, of course, are translated to mean queen.

Copyright by Harris & Ewing

The natural conclusion would be that the name Regina is merely the Latin word for queen given a capitalized initial letter, but another explanation of its origin, and one most generally accepted, is that it is one of the many masculine and feminine names derived from Ragn, which, in turn, is evolved from the Latin rego, meaning to rule. If such is the case, it has a history as full of adventure as an Arabian Nights and is indeed a heroic name for a woman to bear.

The first Reanar was that hardy soul who, after ravaging France, was put to death in England, whereupon his fierce sons in revenge swept England with merciless devastation. His name thereupon became a dread one and in some manner was changed to Rene. At once Renee became popular as a feminine name, since the younger daughter of Louis XII. of France bore it. When she married into the House of Este her name was changed to Renata, a form which is very pleasing to the Spanish and Italians. The old Dutch form, Renira, is quaint and quite pretty. The Teutonic influence makes itself evident in Reigi and Regi.

The aquamarine is Regina's jewel. Much superstition centres about this stone, and it has therapeutic value, since by its paling color it gives evidence of the bodily weakening of its wearer. It is even held that its own color will stain the flesh against which it is worn as indication of some physical derangement. Thursday is Regina's fortunate day and seven her lucky number. The violet is her flower.

Settling a Doubt

"Eleanor," said a man to his wife when the awful truth dawned upon him, "I have swallowed my collar-stud" "That's all right" responded his wife in a tone of evident satisfaction. "There's nothing to worry about" "Nothing to worry about" "That's what I said," answered the wife. "You come in your life you know where you put it"

Take Care, Young Man!

THERE'S a new danger in the Spring fashions; it won't give a young lady a cold and it isn't a subject for reformers, but it will do for a young man. It's pockets—pockets that your grandmother never dreamed of when she gloried in hers. Look what and who Babbette can carry in 'em. The ever fatal one and the old problem, "Love me, love my dog."

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

AN apartment in our city's full of tender-hearted guys—they are all stocked up on pity, they are running o'er with sighs. They are sorry for the workers and they've many cares and frets caused by idle folks and shirkers, but they specialize on pets. Take, for instance, Mrs. Flighty, with her parrot, red and green. It is Mrs. Flighty's blighty, always seen where she is seen. Once the parrot, single-handed, clawed up Mrs. Johnson's face. And was Polly reprimanded? Sent to bed in deep disgrace? Guess again! The owner, weeping, said "This bird makes me very sad; such scenes keep dear Poll from sleeping, and poor Polly's nerves are bad" Mrs. Smithers was her neighbor. As for pets—she had one, too! And it cost her lots of labor giving Fido his shampoo. One day Fido had a brain-storm and he ran small Billy Brown out into an awful rainstorm, chasing madly up and down. Then he chewed the lad quite badly and he ate one finger up. Mrs. Smithers righed so sadly, "Ah, you poor unlucky pup!" For young Billy was a rough 'un, and she gloomily confessed that she thought such fare was awful for dear Fido to digest. Mrs. Nerdcorr had a monkey, and once, when she was downtown, it was feeling rather spunky, so it beat up Mrs. Brown. Though they raised the Nerdcorr's rental; said she, chopping Jocko's chow, "Jocko is so temperamental that I cannot chide him now" I wonder why these people just have to keep a pet; will not learn, poor things, that babies make the very nicest pets.

A Fine Aspect

"What's wrong, old son?" asked Bertie, as he met his chum in the street. "I have been insulted" said Montague. "That so" said Bertie, hiding a smile. "What happened" "I met Millie down the road, and asked her if I might see her home. She said certainly I could: it was easily seen from the top of the hill, and I needn't go any farther"

When a Girl Marries

Ann Lisle Writes Interestingly of the Trials and Slight Jealousies of a Loving Bride

Romantic Serial by a Noted Author

THERE was a note of anxiety in Val's voice. I decided to give her honesty for honesty, and to tell her of the rumors Mrs. Stoughton and Evy had unearthed about her and Lane. It would be bad going—it would be awkward and embarrassing to find my way through the morass of innuendo. But I felt that what was said of her would give her a fighting chance to meet it. I knew—I had known for some time—that Val and Lane dreaded something, and now its loyalty to the man who was making Jim financially, I felt I had to talk with painful frankness to his wife

"Val, I don't think Evey Mason would be a good enemy," I began, but Val interrupted me

"Right-o' Baby Face. I guessed that, and now I'll relieve you from guessing about something. My sudden friendship with cousin Tommie started as a loving in of shields and buckles against the fair Evelyn Not that I find him dull now"—

She concluded with a smile that held a world of suggestion and surmise. Before I could conquer my distaste at that and force myself on with my warning, a key clicked in the lock and Jim's voice called gaily

"Do the bridal lights mean that my girl waited up for me"

It was Val who answered, taking up his words almost before he had ended his question:

Tense and Tired

"Two girls, Jimmie-boy! Hope it isn't a surplus of riches."

As she spoke she opened her gold mesh-bag and, taking out a tiny mirror and a lip stick, she gave herself a critical touch or two. Then, her head drawn away from an ankle, she propped herself up among the pillows. The next moment Jim came into the room.

He looked tense and tired, as if he hadn't quite detached himself from the evening's business. As he made to take me in his arms Val stirred restlessly.

"Wait till I'm gone for the loveydovey stuff" she yawned. "I suppose my big brown bear is at home, too, now, so I'll have to be toddling right along. Jimmie, I hate riding with those wild-looking elevator boys of ours at this time of the night. Would you mind seeing me home? That is—if Anne will let you out of her sight again"

Val's eyes were sparkling with impish amusement as she turned them to me. They were eager, compelling—their languorousness banished. She had told me just how she felt about Jim—and youth. And now she fairly challenged me to spoil her game—if I could

I caught my eyes away from hers and turned to Jim, smiling squarely up at him as he stared almost uneasily from one to the other of us

"Run along, Jimmie-boy See the lady safely home." I replied

In New Negligee

Before the little enamel clock on my desk had marked off five minutes, Jim returned. In those five minutes I had hurried out of my wrinkled uniform and was sitting wrapped in my new orchid negligee, brushing my hair, when he limped wearily into the room and flung himself down on the chaise lounge

Not one of those minutes had been marked by the visitory of Valerie Cosby I felt a glorious certainty that Jim was mine and that Val couldn't touch him. I wasn't jealous, for I was happy Jim's first words justified me

"Some one ought to tell Val to cut out her 'Apostolic-Immaculate-dancer, baby-vamp stuff,' he said, grinning at me chummily. "She overdoes it. What's the point of all this heavy incense and shut-up rooms? Me for the clean outdoors. Come over here and give a fellow a sun-bath, that soft hair of yours, Lilac Lady"

With a little bird singing in my heart, I went to him. And so, forgot to tell Jim about the dinner with Tony and Carlotta. How could I think of anything as distant and impersonal as friendship when I had my own boy and his love?

A Nice Surprise

When I remembered again, a few days later—it was because something happened to knot still closer the threads of my friendship with Tony. This happened the day I had a luncheon appointment with Virginia Gale, in order to keep the afternoon clear for her, I started off bright and early to get my mastering done and to take my automobile lesson. I'm getting so I actually dare drive the little car right through traffic, and soon—I suppose—I'll be brave enough to think about the shining roads without my young daughter at hand to guide and to admonish me

When I arrived at Virginia's she greeted me with this announcement

"Tony is having his tonsils out, Anne. Isn't that a nuisance? He has a long letter from Terry to read to us. It's to all the us. I wanted to join Jim to run up for lunch too But he's had a letter from Terry and said he'd try to subsist on that and your report of what Betty has to say."

"And didn't Jim — mind Tony's being here?" I ventured awkwardly.

"Why should he?" retorted Virginia absent-mindedly, then her voice thinned as she went on. "Rhoda's joining us. I won't permit any more pampering There's the bell That will be Tony You go in and receive him, while I rout that child to join you. She's a great care these days, Anne"

I found Tony pacing up and down Virginia's big drawing-room. He came forward with his hand held out in greeting and with that radiant smile of his seeming to well up from his very soul

"Anne'" he exclaimed "And such a happy, glowing Anne' It's a joy to see you like this, little friend"

"I am happy," I replied. "And Betty"

"Is brave" he said "Braver than we know, I think! Now she might be so happy with that fine lad of hers—if it weren't that her pride is on the rack. It takes a homely old aunt-in-the-world like me not to mind a bit le extra spoiling of his beauty. Our Betty's too lovely to be maimed. Youth ought to be perfect"

"It's so brief," I gasped through the choke in my throat that came whenever I thought of our proud Betty with a useless right arm

Then Virginia came into the room, bringing a little gray, overcast imitation of the Phoebe that had been. Tony's face shone at the kind and warm that it flashed across my mind that perhaps he could help Phoebe—perhaps he would know how to circumvent Evey

"March straight out to the dining-room," ordered Virginia as the maid came in. As the door to announce lunch. "There's a cheese soufflé that waits on no man"

A Digestible Sweet

It was the other day, and I was both pleased and amused. The rain pelted outside, and my youngsters had begged for a tea party in the window seat. And I gave them nice muffins and butter and a generous pitcher of Uncle John's Maple Syrup

Those youngsters looked so adorable as little Alice, six years old, gravely poured them upon which I can rely Halfaway's Bread—this is the real—not made of as good materials as we make our bread at home. It's a blend of whole wheat and raisin and raise, before baking, till all the goodness is puffed out of it. And its crust is so tender and brown—just the kind I like—and every day in my family, because I know it is good.

Putting the Sunshine Into the Cake

Cake, in my own sunny kitchen, I know that it is made right and true. But I am fussy about cakes, you see.

So I seldom bought cake, until I learned of Drake's Cake. One day I was invited to inspect their sunny factory. I was enchanted. The white tiles, and the broad windows, and the flooding sunshine where Drake's cakes are made, would inspire confidence in the most skeptical New England housekeeper. Those cake kitchens where Drake's cakes are compounded are a marvel of cleanliness, and a miracle of efficiency. I'm sure you have a good cake to fall back on now," I told Jane.

A Discovery

My family always liked one thing for breakfast better than most, and my cook could mention I guess it is because they are such a crisp delicious tender thing that tiked them—I mean codfish cakes. Now any mother can appreciate the difficulty there is in making codfish cakes for breakfast, when there are three lively youngsters to get ready for school besides, and the man of the house to start on time to business. So we got very few codfish cakes at my housekeeper were quicker, if less appreciated. That was until I made a discovery. At the delicatessen, at my grocer's, was Gorton's Codfish in Five Cod Dinners.

"The very thing," I exclaimed, pleased. "I will try a can in the morning"

Variety Is the Spice

"You need not confine yourself to one soup, if you use Gossom's. "There are eight varieties." Here they are—Yellow Split Pea, Green Pea, Cream of Lima, Cream of Celery, Black Bean Puree, Clam Chowder, Cream of Onion, and Cream of Mushroom."

"Baker's Bread"

How often we hear a housekeeper speak of "Baker's Bread" with such vibrant pride and joy in her voice. That was just the way I felt until I had tried this bread called to my attention by my grocer. I will confess that, at first, I have felt toward Hathaway's Bread as I feel toward every old family friend: that, in extremity, there is one tried and true upon which I can rely Hathaway's Bread—this is the real—not made of as good materials as we make our bread at home. It's a blend of whole wheat and raisin and raise, before baking, till all the goodness is puffed out of it. And its crust is so tender and brown—just the kind I like—and every day in my family, because I know it is good.

Ginger Tea

Any mother can remember a domestic crisis when she wanted her youngster to take ginger tea for the tummy ache, and youngster protested that he would rather have the ache than the ginger tea. So it was in my family, before I always insisted upon Uncle John's Ginger tea until children complained that the other kinds of ginger irritated their throats. Then Jane told me how to make Uncle's ginger Tea so that the babies liked it I took half a teaspoonful of ginger, added the hot water and milk, and a half teaspoon of butter. The milk and butter neutralize any excessive sharpness of the ginger, and the natural goodness of Uncle's Spice, when made this way, turns out a drink that the children never complain of.

John's Favorite

Now Jane and I know that there's a certain time, in our husbands' lives, when the joys of breakfast have their ups and downs. I mean the evening after that a glass of milk is the only thing that allures him. Then comes the morning On that day it pays to have on hand a simple Plymouth Rock dessert.

John's favorite," is what they call it. It comes pretty near being Bill's favorite, too. It is made of one envelope of Plymouth Rock Unsweetened Gelatine; ½ cup of cold water; and three cups of sugar, and lemon juice to taste. Soak in a simple soft custard—it wouldn't be Johnny, and, the day after, it is just the dessert for all of our family.

The Guarantee Protects You

"If you are not thoroughly convinced that DANIEL WEBSTER FLOUR has produced the best bread you ever baked after you have used an entire sack of it, return the empty sack to the dealer, have your name with him, and the purchase price will be refunded and nothing be said."—EAGLE ROLLER MILL CO.

Bread and Peanut Butter

I am an old-fashioned housekeeper and I have always been fond of old-fashioned things. So it was in tain that there is nothing so good for a school child as two good sandwiches of bread and butter

But my children didn't eat their bread and butter. It was then that I went to market—to find some way of making them eat it. And my grocer showed me Forster's Peanut Butter. I bought it. And I have given the children Forster's Peanut Butter sandwiches ever since. They thrive on them. They relish and so pure. They eat bread and butter every day now with was what it used to be. And your dealer.

Because It's So Safe

"There are many reasons why I would rather recommend Hoods Milk to my patients," says one. "Hood's Milk is pure; Hood's Milk is clean; Hood's Milk is safe. Any milk, if it costs just two cents a quart, will become home to milk. Madame Housekeeper, if it is not all of these—pure, clean and safe—the other loans and you could not give milk for your children, pure, clean and safe, for less than one dollar a quart; still it would not be Hood's. Happily Hood's have always sold good milk at a moderate price, chemically clean. For Hood's tests more samples of Boston milk each year than the State Board of Health have tested of all other kinds of milk combined.

How About the Coffee?

We all agree breakfast is a failure without good coffee. But the coffee, with me, varied tragically. And then my grocer suggested Wattehouse. "It is so carefully tasted and picked and roasted," said he, "it never varies. It's tried in every way. Breakfast is all right now. For our Wattehouse Coffee is always the same.

How About the Butter?

Its name is Spredit now, and people like it.

For Spredit is a pure Nut Butter.

Now, once upon a time, all good housekeepers looked with scorn at butter substitutes. And also turned their noses up at cleansing. "we will take no butter substitutes" they announced.

Which was before Spredit came upon the market.

My Lady Our Marketing does not worry though butter goes to $1.00 a pound, and is scarce at that

"Just put me up two pounds of Spredit," says she to her grocer. "For family use it"

"We are cutting our butter bills by half now," said I

"Spredit is as good as the best butter," said my husband, "keep right on buying it, mother."

Find Your Health and Beauty in this Free Trial Bottle

Wonderful laxative that I have been prescribing to women for 45 years with splendid results

Send for your free trial bottle of Syrup Pepsin today

I KNOW from nearly half a century of medical practice that beauty is more than skin deep, that nothing in the world can imitate the good red blood in the cheeks of health. I have seen young girls of seventeen as sallow and wan as old women, but once the functions of digestion and elimination were restored they bloomed true to their age.

To prove this to you I want you to let me send you a free trial bottle of what is now in drug stores as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will fill out the coupon below the test bottle will come to you promptly, all charges prepaid. A single, pleasant-tasting spoonful will be enough to convince you. Many, many thousands of women never use any other laxative.

I have been a family physician since 1875, and those long years have taught me that most of the ailments and indisposition of women are due to constipation. It is the great danger that confronts all women. It is the cause of frequent colds and grippes, headaches, drowsiness, tired feeling; it destroys appetite and sleep, makes the blood thin, the skin pale, the eyes lusterless. The next time you do not feel just right and have any of these symptoms try a spoonful of Syrup Pepsin.

I have been writing the prescription on which Syrup Pepsin is based since 1875. Druggists have sold it as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin since 1892, and it is today the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. Druggists sold over 7 million bottles of it last year. You can buy a bottle of the druggist nearest you.

The ingredients of my Syrup Pepsin have never been a secret, and are stated on the package. It is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin that acts on the stomach and bowel muscles and so trains them that they soon do their work naturally. It acts mildly, gently and does not gripe. It is in all respects an ideal formula for women.

I would like to see a bottle of Syrup Pepsin in the possession of every woman, and they will all be the better for it. Go to your druggist and buy a bottle. If, however, you would rather try it first then fill out the coupon below and send it to me. I hope you will take the time to do this. It will cost you nothing but will mean a great deal to your health, appearance and happiness.

IT'S WHITE AND $1.05

Owing to a typographical error, our heading yesterday gave the price as $1.00. This was a mistake; $1.05 is right.

Just a word to the people who ask others for advice as to investments. The first man you asked about NEW SAFETY—PAPER told you he would lock it up. He did (?); we don't think. He looked over the listed stocks and not finding it there he said "it was no good." A few years ago that same man was advising everybody to buy Boston & Maine at $200. They did. Events proved that to be "no good." At the same time, the same man told everybody that Gillette Safety Razor was "no good because it wasn't listed." Anybody could have bought it for less than $1.00; today it is worth $175. Free advice is the most expensive. All is not good that's listed.

"You pays your money and you takes your choice."

The best stocks this world has ever seen are not listed. The ones that pay the highest dividends are not listed. The most successful industrials, made so by the activities of self-made men, were never listed. They were called "no good" by the same interests that tell you that NEW SAFETY PAPER is "no good." Experience proves that those men are to be distrusted, who condemn everything that is not put out by their coterie. NEW SAFETY PAPER expects their condemnation and knows why; but do you? They have condemned every good enterprise because it was not listed; they have advised the purchase of every listed "lemon."

If you want to lose money and, what is far more important, lose exceptional opportunities to make money, follow their advice. It is "heads they win, tails you lose."

If you want to make money, use your own intelligence in investing your own money. Investigate NEW SAFETY PAPER now if you would invest while the price is $1.05. Next week will be too late at that price.

CALL MONEY IS 8 PC. IN BOSTON

Mixed Price Movement on the Exchange; Curb Leaders Are Sluggish

The Boston market had a firm start, but prices on the exchange became irregular later, the local market acting during the morning a good deal like the one in New York. Union Twist Drill was traded in for the first time on this exchange, opening at 27½. It had a narrow range and got little attention. John T. Connor Company was prominent and slightly higher. Atlas Tack soon lost half a point gain. United Fruit was a foremost feature, advancing seven points on a new high for the year. Carson Hill, Orpheum and Bigelow were leaders for activity and all were strong.

Among issues to advance a point or more were Punta Alegre, Calumet Hill and Orpheum, while fractional gains were made by Cosper Range, North Butte, United Shoe, Ventura, Rideout-Wickwire, Libby and Bigheart.

Torrington was off two points and point or more declines were shown by Boston & Maine, Mohawk and West End. Similar losses were sustained by American Woolen preferred, East Butte, New Haven, Eastern Manufacturing, Simms Magneto, Island Oil, Swift International, Mexican Investment and Gray & Davis. Copper were dull and New England dull heavy, the latter reflecting fear that the strike will extend to this section.

The call rate in Boston was marked down generally this morning from 8 per cent. to 6 per cent. It had been at the higher figures for weeks.

CURB MARKET IS SLUGGISH.

There was no operation in trading aspects on the Curb at the opening or during the morning. It had a quiet opening and the majority of small leaders were sluggish afterwards. No group was active and trading was confined to a few scattered stocks. Black Hawk continued to show the largest turnover. It opened lower, but soon showed a gain. Weak issues at the outset included Gilliland, Midway, Silver Reef and United Verde Extension. Among those to advance at the start were Simms Petroleum, Universal Silver, Guilford and National Zinc.

At the end of an hour Simms was up 1 at 38, Black Hawk, 8 cents at 1 1-16; United Verde Extension, ¼ at 34½; Silver Reef, 1 cent; Guilford, and National Zinc, 4 cents at 10 cents. Among losses were Gilliland, 1½ at 42; Midway, 4 cents at 42 cents, and Mutual Trust, 3 cents at 77 cents.

UNITED FRUIT ADVANCES 9

Steels, Oils and Sugars Strong, While Railroad Shares Are Heavy

By W. H. ROSS.
Financial Editor.

Stocks were irregular in New York at noon, but the majority were showing gains. United Fruit was a feature of late forenoon trading, being up nine points at its highest. Steels, oils and sugars ruled higher, while rails had a downward tendency.

The market was not so active as yesterday, transactions for the morning aggregating 547,280 shares. Call money renewed at 6 per cent. Sterling exchange rates were higher at the opening. Francs were up a shade stronger and lire decidedly weak. During the morning British, French and Italian exchange receded. Marks were quoted at .0183 and later at .0175.

EARLY MOVEMENT WAS ERRATIC

The early price movement was somewhat erratic and the market was without definite trend during the first hour. Most issues showed gains at the opening, but the next movement was downward. A slight rally was followed by another reaction, but in the second hour the tone was firmer and the list displayed strength. Cuban American Sugar soared on a few transactions, showing more than thirty-one points gain during the forenoon. Studebaker was an active feature and weak on the whole. Stromberg had sagged nine points at its lowest. Yanadium was strong and Replogle lost an early gain. Republic was the leader among steels, and Baldwin first among equipments. Rails and coppers showed early weakness, but improved. Steels, sugars, oils and equipments manifested class strength most of the time.

MORE BUYING BY PUBLIC.

The market is getting more support from the outside, the public being impressed apparently by stock dividends and the secondary advances of a few issues. Such developments are calculated to whet an appetite for speculation. The professional element is still bearish and decidedly surprised by developments. Money is cheaper and in more supply than expected, and while business men are now placing orders for goods and commodities with more caution trade continues at a record-breaking pace.

Railroads have acted surprisingly well with a great strike spreading. It is said that they would have responded more to the enactment of the railroad bill but for persistent selling by foreign holders. Europeans are realizing on foreign securities under the stress and great need of capital for use at home. This country has absorbed its own securities over a long period in an astounding manner. While talk around brokerage houses is gloomy, it is reported that big financial interests are taking the opposite view. It is an anomalous market in many ways, and one which is verifying the French proverb, "It is the unexpected that happens!"

ATTRACTIVE FOREIGN BONDS

With present foreign exchange rates as favorable to the American dollar, there are offered rarely attractive bond issues, with a high rate of government guaranteed yield, available only in the aftermath of the war.

Foreign Exchange

Since March 1st Marks have advanced from 1.02 to 1.50, showing to investors in German Exchange and Securities a profit of 76%. The parity of the Mark is 23.8 cents; consequently there is still a profit possibility of 1225%, in addition to interest in the purchase of German securities. During the six weeks in question Germany has passed through a Revolution, been threatened by Bolshevic attacks and had some of her chief cities occupied by French troops.

In searching for the reason for this phenomenal increase of Mark prices in the face of political developments so unfavorable to Germany, we find a growing confidence on the part of statesmen and international banking interests in the ability of the German people to eventually establish an orderly, permanent government and to rehabilitate their country financially and industrially. No further proof is needed that Exchange rates are influenced more by trade balances than by internal political conditions.

That Germany is already moving to regain her lost foreign trade is evidenced by the following statement from B. H. Newton, Collector of the Port of New York:

"Imports from France and Germany—especially the latter—are gradually resuming their pre-war status. Germany has sent shiploads after shiploads of her cutlery here. She is also sending other articles in large quantities."

We believe that Mark Exchange is due for further substantial—perhaps sensational—advances, and advise the immediate purchase of German City Bonds as the best means of taking advantage of this situation. These bonds bear interest, are guaranteed as to principal and interest by the entire present and future property and full tax-levying power of the issuing cities, and are readily marketable.

All Allied Government and German City Bonds bought, sold and quoted.

(1) To nominate for the Presidency by direct nomination and to elect by popular vote.
(2) To elect the Cabinet officers and make them responsible to Congress.
(3) To deprive the President of the power of patronage; to put public offices as nearly as possible under Civil Service, and have appointments made by a comittee of Congress.

Advice to Women on the Use of New Power in Politics

Failure, not improbable, of a thirty-sixth State to ratify the nineteenth amendment in time would deprive women in eighteen States of a vote for President this year, Massachusetts among them. It will not affect the women of New York. They have it. Connecticut and New Jersey women may not vote this year, but 17,000,000 women in thirty States will. They may profoundly affect the result.

What are the political tendencies among these new citizens?

The usual machinations of the old party politicians are being employed to bring the women into partisan alignment. Thus we have pretentious women's Republican and women's Democratic clubs, a careful assignment of ornamental positions in the old party organizations to "representative" women designed to allure their sisters, and complimentary speeches from men candidates, courtiers of the new power.

These manoeuvres seem not to be making a very deep impression, if the writer of the following letter is well advised:

A large number of the women voters will, I believe, support a third party movement. The suffrage amendment was delayed a year and a half in the Senate when the Democrats were in power. In the Delaware defeat the Republicans will be held responsible. Aside from their suffrage record, however, the two dominant parties are alienating the support of women.

None of them, apparently, will do anything to lower the cost of living. In Albany a bipartisan reactionary group, controlled by the bosses of both the old parties, are fighting mild welfare bills to improve the condition of women in industry. The utterances of nearly all the Presidential candidates thus far contain little but meaningless platitudes.

To my personal knowledge, capable suffrage workers are joining the new Labor Party. Others are watching its growth with an interest which comes less from adherance to labor than from disgust with the two old parties.

As a woman voter of progressive tendencies who is not yet converted to the platform of the Labor Party, I demand that Democratic and Republican leaders wake up and give the new army of women voters principles and platforms worth voting for.
EDITH WHITING.

The difficulty confronting both the old parties is that principles and platforms worth fighting for, from a progressive standpoint, would estrange persons upon whose campaign contributions the politicians are accustomed to rely.

Platitudes, sonorous and well balanced, are very necessary to the type of candidate like, let us say, Leonard Wood on the Republican side, or Attorney-General Palmer on the Democratic side, who wishes to make a noise like a progressive without scaring away the pay checks of the privileged interests.

Our advice to women who want really progressive legislation is to formulate their wishes and put them up to the old parties as demands. That is the way every great reform has been won—outside the party organizations at the start.

If a new party shall prove to be necessary to push progressive measures forward, progressive minded women will be wise not prematurely to align with either of the discredited old parties, now so eager to enroll them.

Lesson Taught by Michigan; Mr. Taft as Adviser

Before the Michigan primaries the opponents of Hiram Johnson used as their chief argument against him the fact that he had fought the League of Nations from start to finish. They had, indeed, no other talking point.

Now that Michigan Republicans have indorsed his candidacy so handsomely, these opponents say that the league was not an issue.

It is an unfortunate alibi, for if it be accepted, see what it proves—that the people are so indifferent to the league as to want for President its most determined antagonist.

Whether the Michigan vote registers positive antipathy or only indifference to the league, it surely establishes that the people are for positive, progressive Americanism, without strings leading either to financial centres or European intrigue.

Once more is the judgment of this journal confirmed.

Mr. Taft gives out a long statement attacking Senator Johnson and praising Mr. Hoover as a better Republican.

Mr. Taft, backed by the entire National Republican organization in 1912, carried for President only two of the forty-eight States. The Progressive ticket of Roosevelt and Johnson beat Mr. Taft in twenty-six States.

Mr. Taft now endorses Hoover. So does Senator Watson of Indiana. Both speak for the old stand-pat Republicans, who have learned nothing since 1912. They do not like Mr. Hoover, but they hope to use him to beat Johnson exactly as Mr. Taft was used by the Root-Penrose-Barnes-Murray Crane Old Guard to beat Roosevelt in 1912.

The square test will come next month in the California primaries, where both men are native sons.

Mr. Taft has some admirable and many lovable qualities. In politics he is an excellent guide if employed in the way a highly successful business man once employed one of his college chums, whom he made his inseparable friend, associate and adviser.

The chum had made many business ventures of his own after leaving college and failed in all of them for reasons which no one could exactly discern. He probably had a genius for making wrong decisions. Some men have.

His masterful and successful classmate took him into a limited partnership, and, knowing well his honesty and good intentions, consulted him about everything, thus giving his friend's instinct for failure full chance to work.

The Successful One, when in doubt, always chose the diametrically opposite course from that advised by his unsuccessful friend. As time rolled on he thus added greatly to his own and his chum's profit by capitalizing the latter's talent for doing the wrong thing.

The Republican party might derive the same advantage from our highly respected former President if it would always ascertain what he thinks and then do exactly the contrary.

More Truth Than Poetry

The Bright Side

By S. E. KISER

SOME man who is unworthy of the station
May sit a year from now where Woodrow sits,
Filling too timid souls with consternation,
Shaking the remnants of their faith to bits.
Strange things have happened; stranger things may follow;
We see how men are tricked and led astray,
Accepting as the truth words that are hollow,
Learning too late to shun the evil way.

THE warnings that we hear may not awaken
The multitudes to thoughtful watchfulness;
But cling to hope and keep your cheer unshaken,
Nor yield the patient courage you possess;
Our country isn't going to perdition,
No matter who may come when Woodrow's through;
The man may fail to fit the high position,
But that would not be singular nor new.

SOME blatant demagogue, with false pretenses
And money that is tainted, may succeed
In causing people to forget their senses
And follow where he has the wish to lead;
But, even so, the temple will not tumble,
The fire so long kept lighted will not die;
The altar of our fathers will not crumble,
Our destiny is written in the sky.

SEE what we have endured, what tribulation
We've shown that we can bear and still survive;
Why, after this, have doubts about our nation
Or fail to keep your confidence alive?
The wrong man probably will be elected,
But wrong men have been chosen in the past;
So cheer up, brethren, do not be dejected,
Even a second term must end, at last.

CAUSE AND EFFECT

Golf balls still cost a few cents more per dozen than we have to pay for eggs, perhaps because golf balls that are kept long in storage lose their life.

BACK HOME.
IN THE little town.
WHERE I used to live.
ON ONE of the corners.
ACROSS FROM us.
WAS THE Methodist Church.
AND ON another corner.
THE EPISCOPAL Church.
AND THE latter church.
WAS WHERE as a boy.
I USED to go.
THREE TIMES a day.
WHEN SUNDAY came.
TO SUNDAY school.
AND TWICE to church.
AND ON Friday night.
THE BAND of Hope.
AND ACROSS the way.
WAS THE Methodist Church.
AND I can remember.
HOW THE Methodist boys.
AND THE Methodist girls.
IF THEY were good.
AND BELIEVED the things.
THAT THEIR minister said.
USED TO think us bad.
BECAUSE OF the parties.
WE USED to have.
WHERE WE danced square dances.
AND AS we grew up.
WE PLAYED with cards.
AND I recall,
ONE METHODIST girl.
WHO THOUGH she knew.
THAT I was damned.
BECAUSE I danced.
AND PLAYED with cards.
STILL WALKED with me.
ON THE way to school.
AND ONCE or twice.
WHEN THINGS broke right.
AND THE other kids.
WERE BUSY or something.

WE WALKED from school.
AND WE had a party.
AT OUR house.
ABOUT THIS time.
AND SOMEHOW or other.
THIS METHODIST girl.
INDUCED HER parents.
TO LET her go.
AND SHE was there.
AND LATE that night.
ALONG ABOUT nine.
WHEN SHE was grassy.
FROM DIVING for apples.
AND ALL stuck up.
FROM PULLING taffy.
SHE MADE up her mind.
THAT SHE didn't care.
WHAT THE world might think.
AND SHE danced the lancers.
AND THEN she cried.
AND WENT on home.
AND WAS disgraced.
AND SHE'S living yet.
AND I'VE sent her word.
IF SHE'LL hang on.
JUST A little longer.
SHE'LL BE clean again.
FOR I'VE just read.
THAT THE Methodist Church.
IS TO lift the ban.
AND I'M filled with joy.
BECAUSE I was to blame.
FOR HER downfall.

A THANK you.

EARTH HOLE THEORY IS NOT YET DEAD

By Garrett P. Serviss

"Have Peary and Amundsen completely exploded the theory that the earth is but a hollow shell, open at both poles, a 1,000-mile diameter one at the North Pole and a 1,500-mile diameter one at the South Pole; that consequently such interior surface may consist of continents and oceans like its outer surface and possibly be inhabited?—R."

THIS is the famous "Symmes' Hole," whose vitality has exceeded that of the equally famous "Moon Hoax," since it appears still to be regarded by many persons as a possible reality, while the public quickly recognized that, in the "Moon Hoax," it had swallowed a cunning bait, and laughingly shook itself loose from the hook.

John Cleves Symmes, the inventor of the famous theory about the inside of the earth, was a captain in the American army in the war of 1812 and won distinction in the field. His father, bearing the same name, was one of the founders of the great State of Ohio, having organized a company which obtained from Congress a grant, in 1788, of a great tract of land on the Ohio River, covering the sites of the present cities of Cincinnati and Columbus and other towns in Ohio.

Captain Symmes, often assumed to have been a sea captain, an error that has led some persons to imagine that he actually did see the hole in the earth, if he did not descend into it with a ship (the ocean being supposed to curve around into the opening so as to line the inside as well as the outside of the shell), lived until 1829, and a few years before his death he petitioned Congress to send an expedition to test his theory.

It didn't need Peary and Amundsen to explode the hollow-earth theory, for, like a bomb, it exploded itself. Draw a diagram of the hollow earth, with the holes drawn to scale, imagine yourself inside, apply a little geometry and see what it will tell you.

Letters to the Editor

Third Party Needed

Editor Boston American:

When is that new third party going to take the field? Let us hope soon. It is absolutely necessary that there be another party. The American people can no longer hope for anything, not even representation, from either Democrats or Republicans, as shown by the repeated failures to prosecute profiteers, the aeroplane scandal, Attorney-General Palmer's "agreement" with the packers not to steal any more hundred millions, the Supreme Court decision allowing corporation stockholders to avoid paying income tax, the many and varied so-called "investigations" by Congress, which, by the way, all faded after reaching a certain stage, and why did they fade? Simply because congressmen are too wise to kill the goose that lays the golden eggs.

Yes, sir; a third party is needed, but I doubt if we will get it. Wall street will not tolerate any party that is not its own. "After all, what's the Constitution among friends?"

As a Stabilizer

Editor Boston American:

I desire to express my appreciation of your Saturday's editorial entitled, "The Spirit of Easter." Such gracious words appearing in the columns of a widely-circulating daily newspaper cannot fail to act upon the heart and mind of men as a powerful mental "stabilizer," much as the gyroscope stabilizes the aerial, tempest-tossed car. In times like the present a daily reminder of the moral and spiritual nature of the brotherhood of man, as set forth in the Sermon on the Mount, might greatly help in our readjustment of affairs.
ARTHUR TRUE BUSWELL.

Plea for 4 Per Cent.

Editor Boston American:

As a supporter of people's rights, you ought to start a petition for 4 per cent. beer and light wines. What right have a certain class of people to take away the workingman's only pleasure? It is against personal liberty, guaranteed by State laws.

Had Germany Won Peace, and There Is None
Turks Still Busy
The Original Purple

—By Arthur Brisbane

(Copyright, 1920.)

Germany beaten, finds it hard to manage Anarchist elements in her population. They act as the Communists did in France after the French defeat of 1870. The Germans, endeavoring to establish a republic and maintain order, send troops to stop rioting and destruction. The French, doubtless convinced that they are right, say, "We won't allow you to use your own troops to maintain order on your own soil."

The French send an army, seize five of the biggest German cities. In one of these, Frankfort, soldiers sent by France are Senegalese, black men from Africa. Something is said that annoys the Senegalese. They fire with machine guns, killing women and children. That has just happened.

We have no right to judge the French or anybody else.

Let them attend to their affairs while we attend to ours.

But suppose conditions reversed.

Suppose Germany had won the war and violence had broken out in France. Suppose Germany had sent troops, seizing French cities. Suppose a German regiment of black troops had shot French women and children, what would the rest of the world now be saying about "German brutality"?

Strikes everywhere, in England, in Italy, where Malatesta, well-named Anarchist, leads; in the United States, where union workmen have cut away from their leaders and their unions.

Fighting is going on in a hundred places on the earth in these days of "peace and the League of Nations." Jerusalem is under British martial law, Mohammedans fighting the Jews, who are a small minority of the population.

And for a finishing touch, Mr. Trotzky says militarism and militarization are necessary and admirable.

Russia compels workmen to enter the army, and once in, compels them to work. That must be a shock to some proletarians. It shows that Lenin and Trotzky have control.

Turks, not disturbed by defeat, pursue their indoor sports. They have burnt an American orphanage, and in that distant region a gentleman from Yonkers is seen moving "two thousand Armenian children under fire." The world really wonders where all the Armenian children come from. When you realize how long these Turkish massacres have been going on you wonder how the Armenian nation can stand it.

It is a thoroughly mixed up world. Wise is he who attends to his own business, and happy he who is allowed to do it.

A news heading reads: "Shellfish on the coast of Costa Rica Produces Natural Purp'e Dye." That is hardly news. The robes of the Byzantine Emperors, the original "born in the purple" family, were stained with dye from Tyre, made of shellfish, purpura murex.

The female of the cochineal insect produces the most beautiful scarlet dye, formerly much in vogue with undesirable females of another species.

The humble snail in his shell pattern forms a spiral that involves highest mathematical accuracy.

The glowworm produces light without heat; man can't do it. We still have much to learn in the way of science from insects, shellfish and our other humble brothers. There is among human beings no surgeon as accurate as the mud-wasp.

General Wood says: "You will find all kinds of men trying to gain votes by preaching false doctrines, by promising something they cannot deliver."

General Wood will agree, however, that promises to deliver made in public, by even "preaching false doctrine," are not as dangerous as promises made in private to gentlemen able to finance national campaigns. The man of the "false doctrines" cannot deliver what he promises. It isn't so with the private promise made in return for the assistance of the flowing barrel.

They have raised the price of coal to the government of the United States up $1.42 a ton over the maximum government price which was a profiteering price.

At this price they only offer the poor old government one-fifth of what it needs.

Isn't it surprising that the government, able to send millions of men across the ocean, able to take fifty billions in bonds and taxes from the people, cannot get at a decent price, the coal it needs, especially as it has unlimited coal supplies of its own under government lands?
